

took place as the result of public statements made by Archbishop Ruiz on May 3 and a statement made by him on May 5.

Archbishop Ruiz and Bishop Diaz informed me that the constitution and laws, particularly the provision which requires registration of ministers and the provision which grants separate states the right to determine the maximum number of ministers, threaten the identity of the church, giving the state the control of its spiritual offices.

"They assure me that the Mexican bishops are animated by sincere patriotism and that they desire to resume public worship if this can be done consistently with their loyalty to the Mexican republic and their consciences.

Not Aiming to Destroy Church.

They stated that it could be done if the church could enjoy the freedom within the law to live and to exercise its spiritual offices.

"I am glad to take advantage of this opportunity to declare publicly and very clearly that it is not the purpose of the constitution, nor of the laws, nor of the government of the republic to destroy the identity of the Catholic church or of any other, or to interfere in any way with its spiritual functions.

"In accordance with the oath of office which I took when I assumed the provisional government of Mexico to observe and to cause to be observed the constitution of the republic and the laws derived therefrom, my purpose has been at all times to fulfill honestly that oath and see that the laws are applied without favor to any sect and without any bias whatever, my administration being disposed to hear from any person, be he dignitary of some church or merely a private individual, any complaints in regard to injustices arising from undue application of the law.

Explains Church Laws.

"With reference to certain provisions of the law which have been misunderstood, I also take advantage of this opportunity to declare:

"First, that the provision of the law which required the registration of ministers does not mean that the government can register those who have not been named by a hierarchical superior of the religious creed in question or in accordance with its regulations.

"Second, with regard to religious instruction, the constitution and laws in force definitely prohibit it in primary or higher schools whether public or private, but this does not prevent ministers of any religion from imparting its doctrines within the church confines to adults and their children, who may attend for that purpose.

"Third, that the constitution as well as the laws of the country guarantee to all residents of the republic the right of petition and therefore the members of any church may apply to the appropriate authorities for amendment, repeal or passage of any law.

"(Signed) President of the republic, E. PONTES GUZ.

Morrow Plays Big Part.

Settlement of the controversy has been brought about to a large extent through the efforts of American Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, who has worked tirelessly on the problem since he came to Mexico City in an official capacity.

Two American Catholics had an important share in the work. They are the Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, vice president of Georgetown university of Washington, who has been in Mexico for the last six weeks, working on the problem, and Father John J. Burke of the National Catholic Welfare conference of Washington, sent to Mexico April 4, 1923, by Bishop Fumasoni Bionda, then apostolic delegate in Washington.

The controversy between the Mexican government and the Catholic church in Mexico came to a head on

SPANIARDS BEGIN HOP ACROSS ATLANTIC

May. Remon Franco and three companions are speeding toward the Azores on the first leg of what they hope will be a trans-Atlantic round trip flight. They hopped off yesterday from Casagrande, Spain. Unless bad weather interferes, they plan to fly direct from the Azores to New York.

Aug. 1, 1923 when, under instructions from the Mexican episcopate, priests throughout the nation abandoned the churches in protest against the enforcement of laws governing religious activities.

The government took over the church buildings and placed them in charge of laymen, but without priests no services could be conducted, causing one of Mexico's most difficult problems.

The so-called Catholic rebellion or "cristero" movement grew out of this situation and for years fighting has been in progress more or less regularly in several states, particularly Jalisco, the insurgents fighting against the government in protest against its policy on the religious question.

Religious Question Is Old.

The religious question dates back to 1822, when a law was adopted authorizing the government to occupy property belonging to religious orders and to confiscate church funds assigned to charity purposes abroad.

During the war with the United States in 1846, President Gomez decreed the seizure of church properties in order to obtain assets to serve as a basis for an $8,000,000 peso ($4,000,000) loan.

A number of laws relating to church properties and activities, which are considered the real beginning of the "reform laws" were adopted during the rule of Benito Juarez, who had the seat of his government at Vera Cruz.

Separate Church and State.

During the De Tejada administration in 1877 the fundamental principles of the "reform laws" were incorporated in the constitution, stipulating the complete separation of church and state, prohibiting the establishment of monastic orders and authorizing government occupation of church properties.

These provisions also were incorporated in the constitution of 1917, adopted by the administration of Venustiano Carranza, together with a law prohibiting religious instruction in the schools.

The Carranza administration in 1923 decreed that one priest from each church must register with the government thus giving the government some one to hold responsible for the care of church property which, according to the constitution, belonged to the government. This at any rate was the government's contention, but the church authorities would not sanction this registration, contending that it placed the priests as such under the Mexican government.

MOTHER FINDS MISSING CHICAGO GIRL IN OKLAHOMA

Mrs. G. W. Haakins, 1143 Lill avenue, early last evening in Vinita, Okla., identified a young woman known there only as "the mystery girl," as her daughter, Violet Brosseau, 21 years old, who disappeared mysteriously from her apartment at 1350 Sunnyside avenue, on May 5. Mrs. Haakins, after the identification, made in the state hospital in Vinita, returned to Tulsa, where she was to obtain from the county court, papers to claim her daughter.

Miss Brosseau apparently was the victim of amnesia. After she vanished her mother reported that the girl had fallen down the elevated stairs one evening last January and that thereafter she had several short visits of amnesia, periods of several hours during which she didn't remember who she was or anything of the past. Miss Brosseau was to have entered a hospital on the evening of the day she disappeared.

Miss Brosseau, when she disappeared, was employed as a stenographer. She had been graduated from the University of Chicago about a year ago.

FREE "DOUBLE" OF BLACKWOOD IN THEFT CASE

Clement Tatton, who was arrested by the police because of his close resemblance to Assistant State's Attorney Raymond E. Blackwood, was released yesterday by Deputy Commissioner John S. Stagg. Inasmuch as Frederick Froome, real estate dealer at 1709 West Fifty-ninth street, continued to insist that it was Blackwood who was one of three men who robbed him last April, the police had no charge to place against Tatton.

After viewing Tatton, two other witnesses to the robbery, who also originally identified Blackwood, said they may have been mistaken. They, however, would not accuse Tatton of the crime.

State's Attorney John A. Swanson said yesterday that he feels confident in view of all the developments that Blackwood will win his vindication on June 25 when Judge Edgar Jonas in the felony court hears the testimony.

Kenneth Blomquist, 14 years old, 611 East avenue, Oak Park, yesterday dove into the Fox river at St. Charles and saved the life of a four-year-old boy whom he saw fall into the water. Kenneth was with his cousins, Frances and Marian Nelson, daughters of Dr. T. M. Nelson, chairman of the Oak Park zoning commission, when the accident happened. The name of the child was not learned.

ACQUIT QUINN AND 4 OTHERS IN VOTE FRAUD

Jury Reaches Verdict in Four Hour Debate.

"Prince" Arthur Quinn, Democratic boss of the 42d ward, and four co-defendants were acquitted by a jury last night in Judge Harry B. Miller's Criminal court of charges of conspiracy to commit vote frauds during the mayoralty election of April, 1927. The jury reached its verdict after four hours of deliberation.

Edward Hellar, Harold Wahl, Martin Nelson and Ernest Moeller, who acted as election officials in the 23d precinct, were the others acquitted with Quinn. Some of the defendants had been sworn in to take the place of other election officials who had left their posts.

Contradict State Charge.

Quinn and his co-defendants, through Attorneys Thomas D. Nash, James McDermott and Joseph Kolb, produced witnesses to contradict the charges made by the prosecution that the defendants destroyed ballots which did not suit them and substituted others. Quinn at the election was working in behalf of the reelection of William E. Dever as mayor and it is charged that he stole votes from Thompson and gave them to his opponent.

During the trial the state produced more than 30 voters of the precinct who testified they voted for Thompson, but the official count showed he only received 10 votes.

The state had depended principally on the testimony of two alleged accomplices, Frank Schaefer and Joseph Kell, who acted as election officials for part of the day. They were sentenced to the county jail for contempt by County Judge Jarecki, but were later released of their sentences when they confessed and blamed Quinn and the others.

Accomplices Under Fire.

The defense attorneys centered their attack on these accomplices and produced witnesses to show that Quinn and the other defendants were peaceable throughout the day and never opened the ballot boxes, as charged by the state. The prosecution also alleged that Quinn brandished a revolver to enforce his demands. Quinn, on the witness stand, denied that he was armed.

Assistant State's Attorney C. E. Lounsbury and Malachi Coghlan refused to comment on the jury verdict.

CAUGHT IN CHASE; ADMITS THEFT OF $1,000 BRACELET

Caught after a chase that provided crowds in the streets near the federal building with a thrill when a detective fired his revolver into the air, Douglas MacNeillidge, 24 years old, 601 Deming place, last night confessed to police that he stole a diamond bracelet valued at $1,000 from Miss Celina M. Starks, 23 years old, of the Whitehall hotel, and attempted to make her pay $300 for its return.

He was trapped by George Melican and Frank Puert of the detective bureau and John McMahon, the girl's attorney, when he called at the general delivery window to claim what he thought was the money for the bracelet. When he saw the policemen he fled through the door, but stopped a block away and threw his hands in the air after the shot had been fired by Policeman Melican.

Miss Starks told Deputy Commissioner Stagg she missed the bracelet Wednesday night after talking with MacNeillidge. Later he called her up and she told him of the loss, and her suspicions were aroused when he told her he could get it back if she sent him $300.

POLICE PROBING SUDDEN DEATH OF EX-CHICAGOAN

Authorities of Chicago and Detroit last night were investigating circumstances surrounding the sudden death in a Detroit hotel of Max Levy, former resident of 1453 Winnemac avenue, but said lately to have been a New York business man. The body of Levy, who had registered at the hotel under the name of Max Meyer, was found on Thursday.

Levy's estranged wife and three children were located residing at the Winnemac avenue address, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. R. D. Schulhoff, was found at 1321 Carson avenue. Mrs. Schulhoff said Levy had been separated from his wife for more than a year and that Mrs. Levy heard from him last about six months ago.

Records found in Levy's room indicated he had $20,000 on deposit in a New York bank and that he was employed by the Matchless Utilities company, New York.

YOUTHS ADMIT KIDNAPING; GET LIFE SENTENCES

Judge Gives Heavy Penalty to Stamp Out Crime

Life imprisonment sentences were imposed yesterday by Judge Frank Comerford of the Criminal court on two youthful and self-proclaimed members of the Al Capone gang when they entered pleas of guilty to charges of kidnaping for extortion. The judge announced that he was imposing the severe sentences in the hope that they would act as a deterrent to the crime of kidnaping, which is getting far too common.

Rex Carroll, 20 years old, 513 North Drake avenue, and Albert Wals, 24 years old, 1448 Dickson street, were the youths sentenced when they decided to throw themselves on the mercy of the court rather than take a chance with a jury. The trial at the time had progressed nearly to a point of closing arguments when the men stepped before the judge and asked permission to plead guilty.

State Asks Death Penalty.

"If they plead guilty the state will continue to insist on the death penalty as a punishment," said Prosecutor Harry Ditchburne. Despite this statement the men entered the pleas of guilty.

"If you men had previous criminal records I would not hesitate to indict electrocution as the punishment," said the judge. "Severe sentences must be given in these cases because kidnaping, which was a rare crime, has suddenly become common. The gangsters have been kidnaping victims in order to extort money and when they are caught the law should not deal leniently with them."

Kidnap and Beat Youth.

Joseph Wadyski, 17 years old, 908 Fairfield avenue, was the victim of the two men, who at the time boasted they were Capone gangsters. He was kidnaped by the two men, taken to a garage and beaten. He was accused of stealing alcohol, he said, and when he protested he had no knowledge of the booze traffic he was taken to a hotel on Washington boulevard and held prisoner. His father was then forced to give up $50 to secure his liberty and when the gangsters came back for more money a few weeks later they were arrested.

PLUNGING BISHOP MAY EXPLAIN HIS STOCK GAMBLING

Books Show How Cannon Traded on Shoestring.

BY TOM PETTEY.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
New York, June 21.—[Special.]—Details of the adventures of Bishop James Cannon Jr. in the "put and take" affairs of Wall street will be revealed at bankruptcy hearing here Monday. Furthermore, it was learned this afternoon the plunging bishop himself probably will be subpoenaed to explain to a puzzled referee how he ended in $100,000 worth of stock on a meager capital of $2,500.

The big man of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, who probably is better known as a national dry leader than he is as a Wall street speculator, was one of the star traders in the alleged bucketshop firm of Kable & Co., now bankrupt. Charles W. Kable and Harry L. Goldhurst, his partner, are under indictment for using the mails to defraud. The hearing Monday will be before Robert P. Stearns, referee in bankruptcy.

Some Interesting Details.
A number of curious but charmingly interesting peculiarities cast their light over the bishop's ability to trade from religious fields to the stock market world. One of the most curious of these was the fact that the bishop's round of handclapping at the anti-Smoot convention at Kansas followed an attack on "stock market gambling." This was Bishop Cannon's own pet convention.

Another feature is Bishop Cannon's use of the "wonderful" conception of what constitutes buying for investment and gambling. The bishop has readily admitted that he bought and sold stocks and options through Kable & Co., but insists he thought it was a reputable "part payment" investment house and that he didn't know he was gambling.

Decisions of the crusading bishop's "firm" was made by Judson Campbell, attorney for Kable, after United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle had asked him to do so. Mr. Campbell then made public three photographs containing the bishop's trading account.

Tell of Alleged Boast.

The dry leader, who calls the publication of his stock deals a "mud-slinging" and "an effort by my political enemies to besmirch my character," is reported here to have boasted several months ago when disclosure was threatened that he would "fix things up at Washington and nothing would be revealed."

Mr. Tuttle has consistently refused to let any one look the Kable records over. Miss Annie Palmer, trustee of the assets of the bankrupt concern, offers to take any blame for the delay in prosecution of the case.

"I have been too busy with other matters," she explained this afternoon. The indictments against Kable and Goldhurst have been pending since April, 1928.

$100,000 on Small Margin.
The plunging bishop's broadside of statements sent out in Washington from behind closed doors in some reports are at variance with the books of Kable & Co. The bishop speaks at length of purchasing stocks on the installment plan. The books reveal he paid a total of $2,500 to the firm and on this small deposit he carried more than $100,000 worth of stocks in his name.

Allowing for the bishop's protest—was one of the few customers to show any—the account was rargined for less than 10 per cent at a time when all large brokerage houses demanded margins of from 30 to 40 per cent.

Down in the financial district this explanation for the firm's generous attitude toward the churchman in selling his stock high and carrying him was offered:

"He rocked along until April, making

ON WAY TO CONVERT DETROIT

Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, arrives in city on Chicago and North Western Gold Coast Limited and passes through on her way to Detroit, where she is to make an evangelistic campaign.

Aimee Semple McPherson is back in the middle west to evangelize Detroit. She made little comment on her private affairs when she arrived yesterday evening on the Golden Coast Limited at the Chicago and North Western station. But she willingly posed for photographers. She wore a sports ensemble, a green moire jacket, white pleated skirt, white felt hat and white fur neckpiece.

Kable & Co., was an old friend of the dry reformer. They had enjoyed many pleasant visits together and Goldhurst in his private affairs when she arrived yesterday evening on the Golden Coast Limited at the Chicago and North Western station. But she willingly posed for photographers. She wore a sports ensemble, a green moire jacket, white pleated skirt, white felt hat and white fur neckpiece.

Takes Strings Off Bank Roll.
The bishop, who declares he has been "trading" for forty years, made his first purchase through Goldhurst on Aug. 14, 1927.

The bishop having the prohibition situation well in hand and church activities being light, Goldhurst had an easy time convincing his reformer friend the time was ripe to take the strings off the old bank roll.

The bishop bought 100 shares of Lehigh at 103%. It was sold in September for 108%. The bishop had cleaned up $500. On Oct. 1 the bishop acquired 300 shares of Lehigh at 107%. On Oct. 15 the shares were sold for 108%. The bishop got hooked for $300.

A curious thing about this entry, however, is that Oct. 16, 1927, was a Sunday. The highest price for Lehigh on the preceding Saturday was 104%. The little bit Mr. Goldhurst gave Lehigh on a Sabbath seems to have saved the bishop a few dollars.

Then the big Methodist prohibition and morals man turned his attention to Butterick stock. Now all the traders know Butterick is not so hot. Nevertheless, the bishop maintained a churchly patience and ten weeks later sold at an advance of 4 1/2 points.

The bishop was getting the swing of the thing and dived in and out of Lehigh Valley a couple more times. He made what some of the boys further uptown call "one grand."

By Nov. 15 the bishop had graduated to "quick turn" trading and was dabbling in South Porto Rico Sugar and selling it a few hours later for a quick turnover profit of $85. Right away he dropped some of his jack in quick turnovers in Paige-Detroit and more sugar.

Tries General Motors.
He got some of his money back the next month when he jumped on General Motors. January, 1928, was his heavy month. The books showed he bought $153,254.52 worth of stocks and sold $46,000 worth.

He rocked along until April, making

CITY'S 1ST TRIAL DIVORCES OVER; VERDICTS DIFFER

One Wife Wants Decree; Other Is Remarried

Chicago's first trial divorce came to a close yesterday. Mrs. Lillian Speyer, 5415 North Lotus avenue, who had been living with her husband for one year as housekeeper, without the time-honored obligation of "love, honor and obey," found the arrangement more successful than marriage. She demanded her delayed decree and said she intended to remain in her home—as housekeeper.

Mrs. Esther Williams of Evanston, finishing six months apart from her husband, found separation far inferior to marriage. She said she wanted to return home—as a wife.

Two Experiments Finished.
Both experiments reached their conclusion in the courtroom of Judge Joseph Sabath. The judge indicated he will sign the decree for Mrs. Speyer today—unless she changes her mind. And he remarried Mr. and Mrs. Williams on the spot.

In May of 1928 Judge Sabath approved an arrangement whereby Mrs. Speyer became the housekeeper of her husband, John. Mrs. Speyer had sued for divorce on charges of cruelty and the judge promised to withhold the decree for a year pending the result of the probation.

The Speyers were married Jan. 4, 1911. They have four children, Leonard, 17 years old; Francis, 11; John, 9; and Evelyn, 4. Mrs. Speyer remained with her husband, continuing to care for the children. Yesterday she asked for the decree.

Treated Like Sweetheart.
"I want the divorce," she said. "We are getting along better now than before. My husband treats me like a sweetheart, takes me out and is easier to make life easy for me."

"He has never been cruel to me. In the whole year. Even the children notice the difference and have asked why we don't fight now. I have gained twenty-five pounds and am a healthy, happy woman. I don't wish to leave my husband, but intend to go on as his housekeeper."

Speyer was not so enthusiastic about the plan. He declared that he loved his wife and would rather not have the decree. He joined her in the plea for a divorce only at her insistence.

Divorced Couple Remarried.
Mr. and Mrs. Williams appeared before the judge with Attorney Barrett O'Hara, former lieutenant governor. They were married in 1925 in Marlboro, Mass. In 1925 they came to Chicago. Last November the wife won a divorce on a charge of cruelty, but agreed to reconsider the case later.

Yesterday the Williamses confessed that the separation was a failure and asked Judge Sabath to remarry them. The ceremony was performed with Attorney O'Hara, who had represented the wife, as the best man.

KILLERS UNKNOWN, VERDICT.
A verdict of murder by unknown assailants was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Ralph C. Kane, whose bullet-riddled body was found Sunday morning on a road near Chicago Heights.

KYLE IS GIVEN JAIL TERM AS DRUNKEN DRIVER

Sentenced to 60 Days and Fined.

Joseph Kyle, 4246 Sheridan road, wealthy real estate broker, who was acquitted of manslaughter on his second trial several years ago after he had killed an aged farmer with his automobile, was yesterday sentenced to serve sixty days in the House of Correction and fined $100 and costs for driving while intoxicated on May 30.

Kyle was found guilty by a jury last Tuesday and sentence was imposed yesterday by Municipal Judge Samuel H. Trude as he overruled a motion for a new trial.

Set Up as Example.
"This court will not tolerate drunken drivers," Judge Trude said in passing sentence. "I am sorry to have to do this, but the example is necessary to teach others not to violate the law. The defendant's argument that he was not drunk does not hold. The policemen who arrested him had not been drinking and testified that Kyle was drunk. The defendant admitted having something to drink. The word of the policemen must therefore be taken as more authoritative than the defendant's."

Kyle, who is 39 years old, was arrested the morning of Memorial day after his car struck a milk wagon, injuring the driver, Michael Heber, 3600 Normandy avenue, on Irving Park boulevard. Kyle was arrested by Lieut. Charles Egan of the Irving Park station, who released Kyle's companion, Miss Ellen Stahl, 33 years old, 426 Diversey parkway.

Admits Taking Drinks.
Police testified that Kyle was "staggering drunk." He admitted that he had been drinking, but said he had taken only "three or four beers." He also testified that he had attempted to avoid the crash.

In 1923 Kyle killed C. C. Hudson, 30 years old, of Harvey, Ill., on Washington avenue. Witnesses testified that he was going at a sixty mile an hour pace. He was sentenced to serve from one to fourteen years on a charge of manslaughter, but was acquitted in a second trial.

Kyle asked permission to appeal Judge Trude's sentence. He was allowed a sixty day stay of execution to file an appeal.

BRITISH EMBASSY TO GO RUMLESS UNDER SIR ESME

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—No more liquor will be imported for the use of the sixteen members of the British embassy staff so long as Sir Esme Howard represents Great Britain in Washington.

A few shipments of choice wines, whiskies and liquors, ordered prior to the ambassador's decision to stop the importation of liquor, will be delivered to members of the embassy staff.

The bishop had about the water wagon the British ambassador was asked tonight if he had reached a final decision.

"I will not approve any more permits for the importation of liquor for members of my staff," the ambassador replied. "Does that mean," Sir Esme was asked, "that you will not permit small quantities to be imported for personal use?"

"It means," the ambassador replied, "that so long as I am assigned to Washington I will not approve any more liquor importations."

NORMANKERRYBOARDS LINER VIA ESCALATOR TO PLEAD WITH WIFE

New York, June 21.—[AP.]—The New York American tomorrow will say that Norman Kerry, film star, boarded the liner Majestic for Europe tonight without a passport, ticket or other credentials, in the hope of effecting a reconciliation with his estranged wife, Rosina, who sailed on the Majestic to visit their daughter in a London school.

Kerry was not permitted to board the boat by way of the gangplank because he had no ticket or passport. He then ran forward, scaled the fence in front of the baggage compartment, and leaped on the escalator used to take baggage aboard. He evaded several of the crew and went aboard sitting on top of a trunk.

A friend of Roche met him yesterday and chided him about the boasts of the so-called Al Capone gambling interests in Cicero that they had him fixed. Roche decided to act, and the detective squads started at once.

Mike King, 4822 West 25th street, Cicero, and Frank J. Ryan, 415 Pularton parkway, were charged with being the keepers of the place.

ROCHE, TOLD HE'S 'FIXED,' TAKES 458 IN CICERO CLUB

Patrons of the Cicero club, which held forth in a hall at 5804 West 25th street, Cicero, were disillusioned yesterday of the idea that Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney's office, was "fixed" and would wink at their gambling activities.

Roche with a score of his policemen executed a surprise raid on the gambling hall and took into custody 458 men, who were crowded around tables, betting on horse races and playing blackjack.

A friend of Roche met him yesterday and chided him about the boasts of the so-called Al Capone gambling interests in Cicero that they had him fixed. Roche decided to act, and the detective squads started at once.

Mike King, 4822 West 25th street, Cicero, and Frank J. Ryan, 415 Pularton parkway, were charged with being the keepers of the place.

DRYS USE MODE OF INQUISITION, CHURCHMAN SAYS

Lutheran Leader Opposes Hair Trigger Officers.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

In an outspoken statement giving the position of the Missouri Lutheran synod on the enforcement of national prohibition laws yesterday, Dr. W. C. Kohn, president of Concordia college, River Forest, and a high official in the church, compared the employment of hair trigger enforcement officers with methods of the Spanish inquisition. Dr. Kohn is attending the 34th triennial convention of the synod, in River Forest.

"Virtually wasn't even a transgressor against the dry law and they shot him," Dr. Kohn stated, referring to the northern Minnesota border tragedy in which an innocent citizen was slain by a hunter. "That was a shameful act and a deep injustice. I wouldn't and don't blame the government as a governing body, nor does the Lutheran church, but to countenance the killing of absolutely innocent citizens is a crime comparable to those of the Spanish inquisition. They will try a thief before punishing him, but they should not kill an innocent man without trial. Such killings are illegal as well as horrible and they can't be excused in any way."

Doesn't Agree with Law.

Dr. Kohn declared that since the Volstead law is on the statute books it should be obeyed, though as a matter of principle, the church does not agree with it.

"While the Lutheran church is not in sympathy with the Volstead law, we do believe that honest laws should be enforced," Dr. Kohn affirmed. "There must be laws for the restraint of criminals who violate the code that by long usage is accepted as good law, and these must be means of enforcing such laws, or else they are scraps of paper."

"But such enforcement must be legal in itself," the church leader added. "Dry shootings are sheer murder. Killing transgressors of the Volstead act without a fair trial is unethical, un-American, and undivided. You may shoot a prisoner for trying to escape, but dry killings savor too much of executions."

Keep Church Out of Politics.

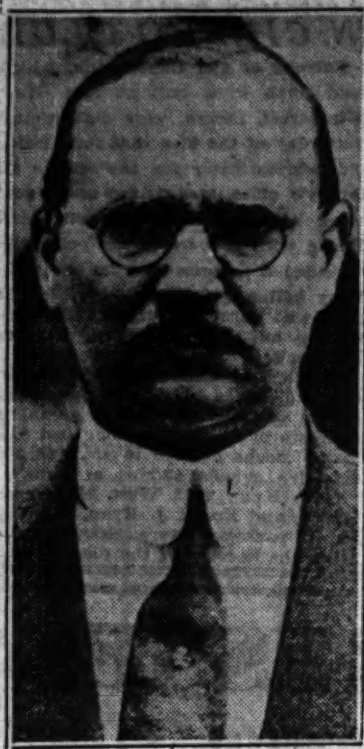

The Rev. Dr. William Dallman of Milwaukee, vice president of the synod, and reflected to that office yesterday on the first ballot, was asked if the Lutheran church would adopt resolutions in regard to law observance. He reaffirmed Dr. Kohn's position that the Lutheran church believed in obeying the law, but declared that a church has no function in directly influencing legislation.

"We believe in obeying the law," Dr. Dallman said. "If I take an oath to obey the law, I do not need to adopt a resolution that I will keep my oath. Resolutions about a law cast a doubt on the validity of that law."

The convention denounced the persistent efforts to restore Sunday prohibition. The church declared that the Sabbath era had passed away with all of its Old Testament prohibitions related to ritual.

"The Christian religion is not a

BUDGET CHIEF

COL. J. C. ROOP.

Washington, D. C., June 21.—(AP)—President Hoover late today announced the appointment of Col. J. C. Roop of Nebraska as director of the budget.

Roop succeeds Herbert M. Lord, whose resignation became effective several weeks ago. At present the appointee is in Santo Domingo, where he served with the Daves commission in reorganizing the financial affairs of that country.

After the organization of the budget bureau, Roop served for one year as assistant director, leaving at the end of that time to enter private business. He served in the world war as a lieutenant colonel and later as a colonel of engineers. He is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania.

religion of morbid restrictions and dampening prohibitions," the code adopted yesterday declared. "Legislation can only restrain; it cannot reform. Laws can remove temptations to do wrong, but they cannot make a man will do right. They may close Sunday ball parks and movie houses, but they cannot make a man temperate."

The two educational boards of the church, the Lutheran parochial school board and the Sunday school board, were merged into one board of thirteen members. Membership on the new board will be drawn from the theological seminaries, the normal school, and from the pastors. Headquarters for the new educational board will be located in one of the metropolitan centers.

The climax of the convention will come on tomorrow afternoon, when the 400th anniversary of the Lutheran catechism will be observed with ceremonies at Soldier's field.

CANADA OFFERS TO DISARM RUM CREWS AT DOCK

Sifts Shooting Up of Ontario Yacht.

Detroit, Mich., June 21.—[Special.]—A proposal from Canadian sources to disarm rum runners before they leave the Canadian export docks was one of the main developments today in the international controversy aroused by the Detroit river war.

Alfred E. Cuddy, deputy commissioner of the Ontario provincial police, was here today investigating circumstances surrounding the peering of a Canadian pleasure yacht by machine gun bullets fired by United States customs patrol agents.

Commissioner Cuddy was shown the boat by the owner, who hid so with the promise that his name be kept secret.

Cuddy said the boat had never been engaged in liquor smuggling. He refused to reveal the circumstances of the shooting other than to say that United States patrol agents had ridden the boat with machine gun bullets without justification.

Sifting Attack on Patrol Boat.

Cuddy also is conducting an investigation in cooperation with United States authorities to determine the identity of the rum runners who fired from Canadian waters at a customs patrol boat containing two inspectors last Wednesday.

Cuddy promised prosecution of the rum runners in Canadian courts if they are located.

As a result of his activities today Cuddy said, he had established two points.

"One is," he said, "that Canadians engaged in exporting liquor are not armed. Detroit rum runners are responsible for the shootings. The second is that liquor exporters are doing very little business."

Cuddy will report on the abduction of a Windsor newspaper photographer and the theft of his camera last Wednesday and the general carrying of pistols by men whose boats are loaded at the export docks.

Pledges Cooperation.

"We have no requests for extradition of any men to the United States, but we will cooperate in every possible way," Cuddy said. "If we hear nothing from the United States on these matters we will prosecute every one we can for carrying guns."

The rum runners who fired Wednesday at customs boat number 4101, are members of an east side Detroit gang notorious for rum running and hijacking, according to Walter S. Petty, assistant collector of customs here.

Mr. Petty today held a "peace conference" with spokesmen for Detroit yachtmen who have complained of overzealousness and arrogance on the part of border patrol men.

The United States, it is rumored here, soon will renew its appeal to the dominion of Canada to prohibit by law the exportation of liquor to this country. Creation of an international police zone in the Detroit sector is likely to be asked.

GOV. GREEN FIRES HOT SHOT AT DRY LEAGUE LEADER

Denies Intimidation to Influence Laws.

Lansing, Mich., June 21.—[Special.]—Antipathy between Gov. Fred W. Green and the Rev. R. N. Holsapple, superintendent of the Michigan Anti-Saloon league, growing out of the governor's refusal to accept the dry leader's dictation at the time of the modification of the "life for a pint law," flared again today, when the executive answered accusations made by Holsapple in his annual report submitted to the league trustees this week in Detroit.

The governor, in denying several of Holsapple's charges, hinted that it would be an excellent idea if a demand were made that Holsapple give a detailed report of the league's expenditures in this state during the last year. The Holsapple report showed $71,622 was spent, but the public was not informed of the specific items.

Of this amount, the governor said, only $2,700 is shown to have been spent in the national campaign when, he declared, "the wet and dry issue was clearly drawn."

Calls Report "Garbled."

"It is a pity," said the governor, "that an organization containing so many excellent people should be represented by so undignified a man as Holsapple, who calls legislators imbeciles and submits in his official report a garbled version of the facts."

Holsapple had attacked Green in his report for supporting the state malt tax, declaring: "The inordinate desire of Gov. Green for money for various state expenditures resulted in the enactment of one of the most vicious pieces of legislation ever placed on the Michigan statute books—the so-called malt tax law. This law gives prestige to the bootlegging industry and virtually makes Michigan one of the greatest bootleggers of the nation and forces the secretary of state and his assistants who collect the tax, to be involuntarily bartenders. It is rotten legislation and could not have been passed had not certain senators been informed that measures in which they were interested would be vetoed unless this bill became a law."

The governor today denied that he ever threatened or promised any particular action on legislation in order to assure passage of the malt tax bill. Holsapple's further allegation that the Turner bill, providing $2,000,000 aid to the poorer school districts annually was threatened with a veto was pronounced by the executive to be a downright falsehood. Gov. Green pointed to the fact that this act had been passed and signed before the legislature acted on the malt tax bill.

The governor also defied Holsapple to produce any legislator who would say the governor had threatened him, either directly or indirectly, or had made promises in order to secure passage of the malt tax act or any other measure in which the administration was interested.

The executive cited Holsapple's activities as a lobbyist which were the subject of a letter of protest sent to the national Anti-Saloon league headquarters by a group of dry Michigan legislators, and he deplored the continuance at the helm of the Michigan league an official "so given to damaging conduct and unreliable statements."

LEGAL BARRAGE TO SEEK CLOSING OF DOG TRACKS

Grand Jury Quiz One Unit in County's Attack.

The bank accounts of certain gangsters and perhaps some public officials will come in for scrutiny next week by the grand jury which will start an investigation of the dog track operations in Cook county as the first step in a legal barrage by First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup and Pat Roche, chief investigator.

"I have heard certain rumors which I will ask the grand jury to investigate," said Roche. "One report is that one official is interested to the extent of $60,000 and another to the tune of $5,000 in the dog tracks. The grand jury will be asked to call for the bank accounts of these men, as well as to look into the reports that gangsters and beer runners are really behind the tracks."

Indictments Are Expected.

The grand jury will probably start its investigation on Monday or Tuesday by returning indictments on the evidence already gathered. The names of certain of the George (Bugs) Moran gangsters, as well as some henchmen on Al Capone, are expected to be found in these indictments.

The Fairview track is reported owned by Moran and Jack Zuta, while Alvin Karpis, murder, sentenced to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge John J. Sullivan.

Robert Butler, kidnapping, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge John J. Sullivan.

Alphonse Berthold, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Robert Gotsel.

The Hawthorne track is said to be operated by the Capone interests. The Thornton outfit is attributed to Chicago Heights interests.

The grand jury inquiry is one of many legal moves to be started by the prosecutors. It was announced that quo warranto proceedings against the track owners, as well as abatement suits, will be started early in the week. The abatement suits will try to have the tracks declared public nuisances and closed as such.

Want Charters Revoked.

An effort will also be made to have the charters issued by the state to the various clubs revoked on the ground that they are being used to conduct an illegal business.

"We do not intend to allow the tracks to operate all summer," said Prosecutor Northup. "If we cannot get speedy action one way, we will try another. We will use every method at our command to stop the unlawful operation of these tracks."

Emmerling Held to Grand Jury on Robbery Case

William (Dutch) Emmerling, well known police character, was held to the grand jury yesterday in $15,000 bonds by Judge Edgar Jonas in the felony court. He was charged with the robbery of a soft drink parlor at 4321 South Marshfield avenue, on Feb. 25.

SEIZE YOUTHS ON CHARGE OF ATTACKING GIRL

Police Officer Joseph Faust and William Foss of the Albany Park district, cruising in one of the new police stivers at Elston and Peterson avenues last evening, sighted two young men in a truck answering the description of the vehicle in which a 17 year old girl had been driven to a secluded spot on the Chicago river bank north of Crawford avenue and assaulted. They were seized and one admitted the crime.

A small boy had observed the girl, weeping, as she stumbled through the woods earlier in the afternoon. At the juvenile detention home the girl declared she was looking for employment in the vicinity of Montrose and Ravenswood avenues when the two youths offered her a ride, and drove to the river bank.

Harold Smith, 22 years old, 5589 Kenmore avenue, admitted the assault, police said. He and Elmer Boucher, 23 years old, 4554 Schubert avenue, were locked up. The girl is said to have identified Smith.

DANISCH HELD TO GRAND JURY ON SWINDLE CHARGE

Attorney Frank P. Danisch, Municipal court clerk, yesterday was held to the grand jury under $10,000 bonds on a charge of operating a swindle game by Judge Francis J. Magretti in Shakespeare avenue court after various complaints that he had swindled them of a total of $40,000. County Judge Edward J. Jarecki had charged Danisch with the money.

Following the arrest of Danisch, St. Louis recently he was committed to a hospital on a plea of insanity. The complaint was made by Stanley Rowinski, 61 years old, Higgins avenue, who said he had been swindled $15,000; and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Haase, 127 Pleasant place, Oak Park, who alleged they had lost $40,000. Danisch money with which to chase mortgages, but that he had lost the money.

Whisper it to BRIDES

Brides ought to be told. Everybody ought to be told that halitosis is a constant daily threat which often damages friendships, business chances, and even love affairs.

Don't fool yourself

No intelligent person assumes complete freedom from it. Because the facts prove otherwise. This offensive condition is usually due to germ conditions that develop daily in even normal mouths.

Fastidious persons recognize this constant risk. They put their breath forever beyond suspicion by using full strength

Listerine as a mouth wash and gargle. Kills germs—destroys odors. Being a safe though active germicide, which kills even the stubborn Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) germ in 15 seconds, full strength Listerine makes short work of halitosis. It first attacks the conditions that cause odors, then destroys the odors themselves. If you care what others think of you, always use Listerine before meeting them. Our free Book of Etiquette is yours for the asking. Address Dept. H-4, Lambert Pharmaceutical Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

CAUTION

Occasionally you may be offered a product "just as good as LISTERINE." We hope you won't be fooled. There's nothing like LISTERINE.

Halitosis is a daily threat...end it with THE SAFE ANTISEPTIC Listerine

FALSE ALARMS FEATURE POLICE HUNT FOR DOODY

'Shoot to Kill,' Is Stege's
Order; No Trace Found.

BULLETIN.

Frank Vasapopoulos, a restaurant keeper, who was shot on Thursday night by a robber, supposed to have been Willie Doody, died this morning in Auburn Park hospital.

So intense was the search yesterday for Willie Doody, the hard-boiled "baby-faced" killer, that when an automobile sped south in Chicago avenue, Evanston, in the evening, a message was flashed that Doody was the driver. A quick check on the license number disclosed that a son of Al. Albert J. Hobbs of the 4th ward of Evanston was the chauffeur.

Last night Al. Hobbs intended to drive north, but was afraid to venture out, as police all along the north shore had been given his license number and had previously received orders to "shoot to kill" if they encountered Doody. The alderman realized the danger of his auto being mistaken for the bandit's car.

In Chicago offers of $7,000 reward had spurred the search. Deputy Commissioner John Stege, who warned policemen to use their guns if Doody was trapped, said he was informed that the fugitive carries a bottle of nitroglycerin with him, with which he intends to blow himself and his assailants to pieces if cornered.

Two Shootings a Mystery. Two shootings were charged to Doody on Thursday night, but yesterday there was some doubt that it was Doody who shot Sgt. Clarence Falk of the forest preserve police, and Milton Vasapopoulos, a restaurant owner at 553 West 74th street. But there is still one outstanding murder charge against Doody, the killing of Police Chief Charles Levy, and he is also accused of the shooting of Postal Inspector Evan L. Jackson.

Falk and Vasapopoulos inspected pictures of Doody and said he looked like the man who shot them, but information considered reliable by the police was that Doody was seen elsewhere at the time of both shootings. There was no doubt that Doody would have acted as did the man who shot Sgt. Falk, as police say he became crazed in the seven years he spent in Pontiac, but his methods were not those of the man who shot Vasapopoulos.

Flee in Stolen Auto.

The bandit shot the restaurant owner before any resistance was made in the attempted robbery. After shooting, he ran out and took an automobile away from Peter Miller, 7405 South Halsted street, and drove north. An hour later George Denbo, druggist at 424 Elston avenue, was robbed by a man who said he had just shot some one on the south side and had killed a druggist two days before. Leon Raymond, Oak Park druggist, was killed Wednesday night, perhaps by this man. Sgt. Falk was wounded when he tried to arrest the bandit after the Denbo robbery.

"Four to one against Reigh Count" bellows the Bookmaker. "Ten shillings to win" says the gentleman in the three button Scott Greys suit. And he nearly dies

The Gypsies wore every color under the sun and there was plenty of sun. The gentlemen seemed to prefer two button peaked lapel coats in Scott Greys and Malacca tans. The ladies preferred Chiffon

An English bobby wouldn't think of spoiling your view, so he lowers his dignity onto the grass—and everyone is happy

These young blades (double breasted) are not going a-milking. The stools are simply to raise them above the heads of their fellow men

"The smart way to go to Ascot is with coach and four horses, a grey top hat and as many girls as you can carry"

CHICKEN KILLERS BALK AT DEFENSE FUND FOR ETKIN

Won't Pay Union's Levy;
Rabbi Tells of Threat.

Members of the Schechters' union (Hebrew chicken killers) have been asked one week's salary to defray the legal expenses of Joseph Etkin, the union's business agent, who was recently indicted with five other labor officials on charges of conspiracy. This was disclosed by members of the union last night.

The conservative element among the chicken killers charge that last Thursday night's meeting at Douglas Park auditorium was packed with Etkin's gang of hoodlum friends, and will refuse to pay the levy. Internal strife has been current in the Schechters' union for several months. It began when the 115 union chicken butchers tried to oust Etkin from office.

Charged with Firing Pistol.
Investigators at the state's attorney's office were informed that appeals to the International Union of Meat Cutters for protection from Etkin and his lieutenants had been ignored. The conspiracy indictment charges that Etkin took $300 from the union depository and paid it to vandals, who are alleged to have set fire to the chicken killing plant owned by Mrs. Anne Bergowitz at 4508 Drake avenue. It is said that Mrs. Bergowitz committed some infraction of union rules.

Several rabbis refused to discuss the situation over the telephone last night. One of them, however, stated: "To mention my name with the Etkin charges would mean my death."

Receives Death Threat.
"They have already sent me a death threat by mail. Grief and corruption in the Schechters' union have become commonplace since Etkin and his gang of gunmen took charge of the organization."

"Unlike their forebears, they have no respect for rabbis. Jewish laws make it imperative for schechters to kill all poultry. Their apprenticeship generally lasts from six to twelve months. They then receive diplomas from rabbis. They receive 12 cents for each chicken they kill. The schechters' apprenticeship is spent in learning how to sharpen knives. Only certain kinds of knives are permitted in the killing of poultry."

"Labor unions are great factors in maintaining high standards of living. But when they are controlled by gangsters and gunmen, then it's a different story."

ROSENWALD CONSIDERS DENTAL CLINIC TO AID CHILDREN OF CHICAGO

A dental clinic similar to that established in Rochester, N. Y., by George Eastman, millionaire camera manufacturer, became a possibility for Chicago yesterday with the return of Julius Rosenwald, Chicago capitalist, from the eastern city. While the project is still in an indefinite state, it is being discussed seriously by Mr. Rosenwald and his associates in the Julius Rosenwald Foundation, the philanthropist said yesterday.

"I was very much impressed with the Rochester institution, although I did not make the trip specifically to inspect it," Mr. Rosenwald said. "There is a real need for something of the kind here to care for the dental needs of school children whose parents are unable to stand the cost of dental treatment."

"Before we make any definite plans, however, it will be necessary to examine the Illinois statutes relating to such institutions. I understand that the laws here are much more rigid in such matters than in New York."

The Rochester clinic cost approximately $1,500,000 at the time of its establishment several years ago, Mr. Rosenwald said.

NEW SESSION ON LAKE FRONT PLAN
NETS JUST TALK
The council committee on railroad terminals held another session yesterday on the proposed lake front improvement ordinance and its amendments. It ended like hundreds of other sessions during the last two years—arrangements were made for further conferences.

The committee directed its chairman, Ald. Edward J. Kaindl, to appoint a subcommittee to confer with officials of the thirteen railroads invited to operate out of the projected Illinois Central station.

The committee instructed members of its technical staff to meet with citizens objecting to Beaubien court being blocked by the planned Randolph street viaduct.

The committee requested the Chicago Plan commission to study the advisability of double decking viaducts leading to the lake front from the business district.

Ald. John Coughlin stirred dissent at the meeting by suggesting that the city should retrieve some of the $2,500,000 property that it gave the Illinois Central railroad ten years ago as part of the arrangements for developing the lake front.

Dugene S. Taylor, representing the plan commission, said that delay in the Illinois Central terminal project was due, in part, to the fact that none of the thirteen other railroads asked to operate from the proposed station has given an answer.

ANN IS BASHFUL, BUT TELLS VIVID TALE OF WOOLING

Hardinge Letters Read in $250,000 Suit.

West Indies, she scornfully tossed it back and told him to "make it $1,500."

Hardinge, a successful business man, short of stature, with kindly brown eyes, gray hair, and small mustache, and wearing tortoise shell glasses, tilted forward in his chair and cupped one hand around his ear as Miss Livingston took the stand. He remained in that position a large part of the afternoon, when he was not carefully conning his letters to her as they were handed across the table for identification.

Atmosphere Is Unusual.
The atmosphere of the trial seemed unusual for such a case. Plaintiff and defendant never glared at each other as they occupied chairs on opposite sides of the table. There was no hostility evident among the witnesses, and even counsel quarreled in a frigidly polite and urbane fashion, when they quarreled at all. At one recess the plaintiff glanced regretfully at the defendant and confided within earshot of the press: "Those eyes—and his smile; I still love them."

But, she hastened to explain, she would not marry him now. All that was over. Besides, Mr. Hardinge inconveniently has since acquired a wife, though the woman he married was not present to hear the story of the woman he didn't.

A subpoena has been issued by the plaintiff's lawyer for Mrs. Hardinge, who is said to have been legally the wife of an army man when, several months ago, she was married to Mr. Hardinge. He has asserted that they went through a second ceremony after the divorce was secured to make their marriage legal.

Letters Reveal Romance.
In the letters read throughout the day one could follow the course of the acquaintance of Hardinge and Miss Livingston from the time they met on an observation car of a Denver bound train to their meeting, several months later, in Tulsa.

Miss Livingston's version of that meeting was given as soon as court reopened in the afternoon. She stated under questioning by Ehrlich that she was 29 years old, lived at 112 East Chestnut street, and had been married when she was 18, in 1918, to Robert J. Puderbaugh, an army officer, from whom she was later divorced.

Q—Where did you meet Mr. Hardinge? A—It was on a train bound for Denver, in June of 1917. I had finished breakfast in the dining car and lighted a cigarette. They told me ladies weren't allowed to smoke there, so I went out on the observation platform.

Q—Anything else? A—Yes, he told me that he was much impressed with my appearance when I came out of the dining car. He said I looked very charming, and that he would like to marry me.

Q—What else was said? A—He asked me to go with him to San Francisco—that everything would be quite proper and that he would pay my expenses. I told him I couldn't because I wasn't well and had to have a rest in Colorado. Then he suggested that I visit him in Chicago. I told him I would have to go back to Tulsa.

From there on the misty were introduced. They began with the usual chatter of people who have recently met, working gradually up to a tone of considerable ardor. The first read in part:

"San Francisco, My dear Miss Livingston: Well, I arrived here on Monday as planned and it was a very warm and dusty trip, so I needed some one to keep me company and missed some one very much. I am sorry I did not get the initial and have to say 'Miss' and I want you to write to me to general delivery, Vancouver, British Columbia, as I don't want to wait until I get back to hear from you."

The next was from Chicago, reading in part:

"My dear Miss Livingston: I arrived home Sunday morning and had a real nice trip although I was disappointed at receiving no letter in Vancouver and supposed you were very much entertained and had no time. On Sunday I went through all my mail and still there was no letter, and I had to go right on to Detroit for Tuesday. Drove back yesterday, Wednesday, and here was your letter. Well, quite a surprise and inside were lots of nice things."

Becomes More Sentimental.
The third warmed up in sentiment: "Dear Ann: I received your nice letter. I sincerely hope nothing will prevent me coming to see you and the exhibition; to see the exhibition very quickly and have the rest of the time to feast my eyes on you."

"Speaking of my amusements, I am a well entertained man with my work, and while I play golf and cards, I am not a fend for either. In the summer I like to drive my car and I would love to take you out to the Medinah Country club and dine and dance in the open, with the moon and stars as a sanctuary influence."

SNOOK INDICTED FOR FIRST DEGREE MURDER OF CO-ED

Jury Requires Only 15
Minutes to Decide.

Columbus, O., June 21.—(Special.)—Dr. James H. Snook, slayer of Theora K. Hix, 25 year old medical student at Ohio State university, today was indicted for first degree murder by the Franklin county grand jury.

Prosecutor John J. Chester Jr., armed with Snook's confession and backed up by thirty-four witnesses, presented the case to the jury. After the evidence was all in it took only fifteen minutes' deliberation before the verdict was announced.

Snook will be arraigned Monday before Judge Robert P. Duncan, presiding over the criminal branch of Common Pleas court. It will be decided then whether a special date will be fixed for the trial or whether it will be carried over into the fall session of court. The indictment prevents Dr. Snook's release on bond.

Dr. Snook was taken back to city prison during the afternoon to undergo examination required by the police department. During the ordeal he joked with his captors and offered a revolver to Police Chief Harry T. French. He told the chief to pick any one of his collection, gathered in his travels as the world's champion rapist pistol shot, which he won at the 1920 Olympic games.

In an interview with reporters at the county jail today Snook calmly reviewed the details of the murder. He calmly stated that the deed was "not justified" and that he was sorry. He admitted having beaten the girl's skull with a hammer and said, "Feeling sorry for her, I slit her throat so that she would not suffer."

The parents of Miss Hix, whose home is in Bradenton, Fla., are near physical collapse.

AGED PHYSICIAN IS JAILED AFTER
WOMAN'S DEATH
Dr. Albert M. West, 70 years old, a physician with twenty-five years' practice in Chicago, was locked up in the county jail last night charged with murder by abortion following an inquest yesterday into the death of Mrs. Violet Koeppling, 30 years old, 3001 Washington boulevard.

A report of Dr. R. H. Jaffe, coroner's pathologist, asserted that Mrs. Koeppling's death on June 15 was from tetanus, developing from an illegal operation. Four internes of the Garfield Park hospital testified that before her death Mrs. Koeppling pointed out Dr. West as the surgeon who operated upon her.

Represented by three attorneys, Dr. West took the stand and swore that the operation on Mrs. Koeppling was self-inflicted. His lawyers were State Senator Lowell B. Mason, Ralph Guzel, and Harry Silverstein. The inquest was held at the Garfield Park hospital, where Mrs. Koeppling died.

CONFESION MADE

A confession made by Doc Joseph A. Plakas, medical quack, involving several high officials in a license ring, was turned over to Matthew F. Walsh, director of the state department of registration and education, last night by Assistant United States District Attorney Henry Balaban. Plakas, charged with issuing narcotic prescriptions without a license, pleaded guilty and will be sentenced by Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward on Monday.

Mr. Walsh left for his home at Harvard, Ill., last night, refusing to make public the details of the confession, but it was rumored at the federal building that startling charges were made by Plakas. The director indicated an investigation would be started immediately.

PREPARED TO FINE $25.
Caught peeping into Miss Alta Kambetta's bedroom window at 1604 West Jackson boulevard, Thursday night, Millard Surden, 35 years old, of Danville, Ill., was fined $25 yesterday by Judge Joseph Burke, in De Plaines street court.

Look about you—think for a minute, and you'll realize how true this is.

We know it to be true, because in 74 years—since the founder of Baird & Warner first opened a real estate office in Chicago—so many who have been helped to better homes, homes to be proud of, by this organization—have this pride—this satisfaction—have achieved success.

baird & warner

During three generations of Chicagoans, and through three generations in the firm, the unusual success that Baird & Warner has had in providing the most satisfactory types of permanent homes, is an assurance of value and satisfactory fulfillment that is unequalled and unquestioned.

Probably no community development of homes has ever been offered that has such natural advantages and beauty, such convenience of location combined with secluded quiet, and that is so completely improved to the last detail, as Skokie Ridge.

Words are not adequate to convey to you the charm and desirability of this spot for your permanent home. You must see it to appreciate it—the century-old trees, the sloping hillsides, the beautiful vistas—visualize for yourself your own home there, the home you'll be proud of, the home your wife and children will love and really live in. FARM INTERESTS MASS TO BOOST TARIFF FIGURES

Demand Increases Above
House Bill Rates.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—Agricultural groups are massing for a drive for further increases in duties above those already made in the house bill.

Only extensive increases together with a scaling down of some of the industrial rates and restorations of building materials to the free list will satisfy the farm spokesmen. Otherwise the framers of the tariff bill will be confronted by the hottest kind of a fight on the floor of the senate.

Hear Livestock Industry.
Prominent among witnesses appearing today before a sub-committee of the senate finance committee in charge of the agricultural schedule were spokesmen for the livestock industry.

C. B. Denman of Farmington, Mo., president of the National Livestock Producers association, asked that rates on live cattle and fresh meats be increased above the house figures. He proposed duties of from 2 1/2 to 4 cents per pound on live cattle and 2 cents per pound on fresh beef and veal. Mr. Denman, incidentally, is understood to be a possible selection by President Hoover as a member of the farm board.

The live cattle schedule provoked a sharp controversy when the bill was in the house. The house ways and means committee originally refused to increase the duties of 1 1/2 and 2 cents per pound in the present law but, as a means of checking the agricultural revolt which developed on the floor, consented to raise rates to 2 and 2 1/2 cents. These are not high enough, according to the live stock interests.

Represent 100 Per Cent Increase.
The rates in the house bill on fresh beef and veal represent a 100 per cent increase above those in the present law, being raised from 3 to 6 cents per pound. If the committee approves a rate of 8 cents it may lead to attacks on the floor of the senate from those professing to speak for the consumers.

Other witnesses were J. B. Stambaugh of Ada, O., representing the National Onion association, who asked a duty of 2 1/2 cents per pound on onions, and Representative O. B. Burnett (Rep., O.), who sought a duty of 70 cents a bushel on flax. The old law carried a duty of one cent per bushel, which was increased to 45 cents by presidential proclamation and to 50 cents on the floor of the house.

Representatives of importing interests, who objected to the increased rates sought by farm groups, also were heard. The highest levies on live cattle were opposed by W. C. Green of Naco, Ariz., on behalf of American producers with interests in Mexico as well as in Arizona and California.

Favor Banker for Board.
It was made known at the White House that heads of farm organizations and agricultural colleges and agricultural editors have responded favorably to the suggestion that there be at least one business man or banker on the farm board.

The White House made public a list of more than 200 persons who have replied favorably to a telegram from Secretary of Agriculture Hyde asking their opinion on the proposal.

Secretary Hyde also asked for suggestions for members of the board and has received nearly 250 replies from farm organizations, colleges and editors. The secretary is to accompany the President on his week-end fishing trip tomorrow and they will discuss the personnel of the farm board. It is expected that several appointments will be announced next week.

Grandsons of Inspector
Heidemeier in Ram Case
Grover and Walter Heidemeier, grandsons of the late Police Inspector Max Heidemeier, yesterday were charged with ownership of a cigar store at 6344 North Claremont avenue where liquor was found. Both were held to the federal grand jury by United States Commissioner Edwin Walker. Their bonds were set at $2,500 and both will be prosecuted under the Jones law if indicted. Assistant United States District Attorney Edward A. Fisher said.

AVIATION NOTES

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[AP.]—Nine air transport companies made money during the last six months of 1928, but ten apparently operated at a deficit. Reports today to a department of commerce questionnaire showed that the nine companies on the right side of the ledger had a total income of $3,238,057, with expenses of $1,646,148, leaving a surplus of $1,591,909. The planes of these nine concerns flew 2,373,165 miles at an average cost of 69.4 cents a mile. Despite the ten who took the air for a loss, the nineteen taken as a whole operated at a profit. Their revenue was $3,818,020, while expenditures were $2,553,052, leaving a balance of $1,264,968. There are about 41 air transport companies in the United States, but many of them are reluctant to respond to the government's questions as to earnings and expenditures. During 1927, revenue of 17 companies was shown to have totaled $2,201,130, with expenditures of $2,151,340. Payments to air transport companies made by the government during the last six months of 1928 for carrying the mail on 28 routes totaled $5,103,825.

The Count and Countess Jacques de Sforza took to the air again yesterday in their aerial tour of the United States. In their Gypsy Moth monoplane they took off from the municipal airport for Jackson, Mich., where they will visit for a few days before flying on to Detroit.

The water ramp for amphibious planes at the foot of 8th street will be formally opened today by officials of the south park board. The artificial aviation beach will give downtown Chicago an air terminal.

The clubhouse at Sky Harbor, a new aviation field west of Glencoe, is expected to be opened to members within a week. It was announced yesterday.

Walter H. Newton, secretary of President Herbert Hoover, flew to Chicago yesterday on his way to Minneapolis where he will visit his son who was recently injured there. At Chicago Mr. Newton took a train to Minneapolis.

One Killed, One Hurt When Plane Crashes in Test Spin

St. Louis, Mo., June 21.—[AP.]—Sidney Crutcher, chief inspector for the Curtiss-Robertson Aviation company, was killed and Alfred Dunlap, 18, a transport pilot, was injured when a plane in which they were making a maiden trip crashed near Lambert-St. Louis field here late today. The plane had reached a height of about 100 feet when the motor stalled and the craft overturned and crashed.

Stabs 3 in Quarrel Over Street Car Seat; Escapes

An unidentified Negro escaped from a Wentworth avenue street car yesterday after stabbing three persons in an argument over a seat. Ernest Ryberg, 44 years old, 5932 South Emerald avenue, Arthur Edert, 36, of 5623 South Wells street, and Anna Williams, colored, 4759 St. Lawrence avenue, were the victims. They said the Negro snatched out a knife and began slashing at every one in reach in an argument with Ryberg.

Come to Canada

It is cool and invigorating in Canada. Not cold in summer but bracing. The famous old Province of Quebec—where you are heading—is swept its entire length by the broad St. Lawrence River, with waters blue as the Bay of Naples. Down this river ply our palatial ships.

You will scarcely believe you are but a short journey from your own stifling city. When the thermometer rises, rise too and be off—Canada is calling you!

IMPORTANT—One ship sails from the head of the Great Lakes down the St. Lawrence River, through the Saguenay Canyon, nearly 2000 miles of beauty and grandeur. The river varies from roaring rapids to a vast expanse of blue water 11 miles wide. Steamers may be boarded at Montreal, Rochester, Duluth or Detroit in the U.S.A., or at Quebec, Toronto, Montreal or Quebec in Canada.

Renn War Book,
Shown Fiction,
Still Is GoodMary Borden Misses Her
Debate on U. S.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.
LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—A week ago I mentioned that Ludwig Renn's book, "War," was one of the most striking of the accounts to come from the German side of the Western Front. I took it for granted that this book was a record of personal experience, because the central character—the narrator, in fact—was called Ludwig Renn throughout, and because the same "Ludwig Renn" stands on the title page.

There is something of a mystery about the book, for I learn that within a few days the German publishers will release for publication an account of the way in which the book came to be written. Apparently the author, Ludwig Renn in fact—belongs to an old military family, whereas the book tells the story of a raw young soldier. It is therefore to be read as fiction. It is not a record of the author's actual experience, but an imaginative reconstruction of what he believed such a young recruit as the fictitious Ludwig Renn would have felt and done.

The book must be regarded as a novel, but a novel so convincing, and so clearly without the ordinary ingredients of a novel (such as the story), that it can be read as a true and entirely unadorned account of a young man's war experience. Meanwhile the more emotional "All Quiet on the Western Front" is sweeping England, as I am told that it has already sold something like six hundred thousand copies in Germany.

And, talking of sales, I am glad to see that "Six Mrs. Greenes," by Mrs. Bradley, is doing well. It is the second outstanding first novel to be published this season in England, is selling rapidly. I believe it is actually selling three or four hundred copies a day in England, which is an extraordinary rapid rate for this country.

No news has yet reached me of sales in the United States, but I shall be surprised if the truth and amusingness of this book, with its young "moderns" who can be liked, does not carry it to the hearts of the American public.

St. John Ervine was to have debated the subject of the United States with Miss Mary Borden this week at the London School of Economics. The debate was to have been called "Was Columbus Wrong?" and a full house was expected, since Mr. Ervine's talks are full of humor and the author of "Jehovah's Day," and "Jane, Our Stranger" has a special place in the hearts of English readers. Unfortunately, however, the debate has been canceled, owing to the fact that Mary Borden, who is the wife of Brig. Gen. Spears, couldn't be present. The abandonment of the debate is causing much disappointment, and it is hoped that some later opportunity may be taken of staging it afresh. In the absence of Mary Borden, Mr. Ervine is "taking on" a veteran and extremely able actor, Mr. Athole Stewart, with whom he will discuss the question, "Should Dramatic Critics Be Abolished?"

The following week, in the same building ("these lectures and counter lectures" are all given for charity) a debate will occur on the subject "Could Film Be Worn?" between Miss Rebecca West and the Hon. Anthony Asquith. The chair, which for Mr. Ervine will be occupied by Mr. A. P. Herbert, will for Miss West and Mr. Asquith be taken by Mr. W. B. Maxwell.

HERE ARE 4 BOOKS,
ALL ABOUT THE LIVES OF COLORED PEOPLE

"Plum Bun," by Jessie Redmon Fauset. (Stokes.)
"The Blacker the Berry," by Wallace Thurman. (Macaulay.)
"Earth Born," by Howard Snyder. (Century.)
"This Side of Jordan," by Roark Bradford. (Harpers.)

Here is a group of books that cover the various phases of Negro life in this country as completely as the proverbial umbrella covered the old fashioned professor on a rainy day. The first two are written by Negroes and deal with city colored folk; the last two concern themselves with country types.

"Plum Bun" is the story of a girl who "passed" for a white person. She is a dusky Endymion of the not-so-gentle sea, eternally searching for beauty and the higher things of life. "The Blacker the Berry" is about a Negroess so dark skinned that she is shunned by the lighter hued of her own race and suffers accordingly. Wallace Thurman is a conscientious scribe and is thoroughly realistic in the chapter called "Rent Party," which is also incorporated in his play, "Harlem." But after "Plum Bun" his book seems a little thin.

"Earth Born," a tale of plantation life, while interesting, falls far short of the standard set by Paul Green and Julia Peterkin in similar works. However, it serves to show the primitive forces at work in the southern Negro: superstition, religious fanaticism, cruelty, which stand out with double intensity after reading about the city dandy and the more suave and decadent passions at work in him. Roark Bradford writes the same type of story in "This Side of Jordan," in which sin, religion, the old witch, and savage celebrations all have their important rôle.

Mary H. Bradley Writes
Fine Story of Adventures

"Trading the Tiger," by Mary Hastings Bradley. (D. Appleton & Co.) Mrs. Bradley, of Chicago, intrepid explorer and interesting writer, has recorded her experiences in Africa, India, Java, and Sumatra, and the heart of Indo-China, on the trail of the tiger. The party consisted of her 7 year old daughter, her husband, and two members of the faculty of the University of Chicago, and the adventures that overtook them make exciting reading. The gorgeous ceremonial dances of the natives, weird practices of the fakirs, oriental palaces, sunrise on Mount Everest, the sights, sounds, and smells of the east—all these make up the kaleidoscope of her story.

Washington Woman Wins
$5,000 for Best Biography

The Atlantic prize of $5,000 for "the most interesting biography of any kind, sort or description" has been awarded to Mrs. Herbert D. Brown of Washington, D. C., for her "Grandmother Brown's Hundred Years, 1827-1927." It is written principally in the form of dialogue and is the result of adroit questioning of a remarkable Iowa centenarian, Mrs. Maria D. Brown, by her youngest daughter-in-law.

Burton Rascoe Will Aid
Eaton with "Plain Talk"

Burton Rascoe will become associate editor of Plain Talk, edited by G. D. Eaton, beginning with its August issue. He will conduct a new department, write book reviews and collaborate with the editor on special features. Mr. Rascoe has been book editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, literary editor of the New York Tribune, editor of the Bookman, and serves as one of the board of judges of the Literary Guild.

Irish Author Coming to America to Give Lectures

Liam O'Flaherty, author of "Mr. Gilhooley," and "The Mountain Tavern," will come to America in the fall for a lecture tour. Harcourt, Brace & Co. announced another novel of his for publication about that time. It is entitled "The House of Gold."

Enough of Henry VIII
to Explain Elizabeth,
Her Famous Reign

"King Henry the Rake," by Clement Wood. (The Stratford company.)
"An Elizabethan Journal," by G. B. Harrison. (Cosmopolitan Book Corporation.)

Here are two books that will may be read in combination, taking "King Henry the Rake" first. For Clement Wood gives you enough of Henry the father to account for Queen Elizabeth and her failure ever to marry. The other book gives you the surrounding British scene from the high seas to the bear pits, from street brawls to Shakespeare. In fact, Robert Greene, reputed collaborator of Shakespeare, is shown as just escaping a gutter death.

A grand guzzler and trencherman picture grinning at you out of the standard set by Paul Green and Julia Peterkin in similar works. However, it serves to show the primitive forces at work in the southern Negro: superstition, religious fanaticism, cruelty, which stand out with double intensity after reading about the city dandy and the more suave and decadent passions at work in him. Roark Bradford writes the same type of story in "This Side of Jordan," in which sin, religion, the old witch, and savage celebrations all have their important rôle.

If you have had the good fortune to read the story of Nero, as told by the estimable Suetonius, you find Nero's picture grinning at you out of the standard set by Paul Green and Julia Peterkin in similar works. However, it serves to show the primitive forces at work in the southern Negro: superstition, religious fanaticism, cruelty, which stand out with double intensity after reading about the city dandy and the more suave and decadent passions at work in him. Roark Bradford writes the same type of story in "This Side of Jordan," in which sin, religion, the old witch, and savage celebrations all have their important rôle.

Jane Seymour bore him the child who became Edward VI. Henry and his court frolicked near Jane until the child, Henry, made a queen of Catherine Howard, convicted at her death by the headman, even importing an expert swordsman from France. Henry was ready for the trial of Catherine Parr as a heretic because she was the cleverest theologian that he. Some of her maids in waiting had been tortured to implicate her in the "new learning," but Henry's fatal illness arrived and the queen, a soothing nurse, outlasted him.

Mr. Wood gives a good picture of Wolsey, the butcher's son, who became cardinal, and made of the refusal of Emperor Charles V. a pope. You get glimpses of more shadowy figures, Columbus hawking about his idea that the world was round; of Luther and his efforts; of Rodrigo Borgia as Pope Alexander VI., a man who understood the Tudors and whom they understood; of Francis First of France wrestling with the eighth Henry as they were two bear cubs. Afar off, you glimpse Savanarola, his bonfires of the vanities, and the fire that ended him.

Mr. Harrison's book picks up Elizabeth's reign in 1558 and carries it to 1594, adopting therefore the style of contemporary journal. In 1591, if you desire some orientation, Henry of Navarre, victor at Ivry, is King Henry IV. of France. Gone into the twilight are Catherine de Medici, queen of France, that cardinal of Lorraine, and that duke of Guise that were interested in the massacre of St. Bartholomew's eve.

GILDING AND GUILT
IN ZORBAUGH SURVEY
OF 1½ CHICAGO MILES

"The Gold Coast and the Slum," by Harvey W. Zorbaugh [University of Chicago Press].

Reading this book is exactly like having a cross section of Chicago served to you on a plate. There it is: take it or leave it. It's Chicago. It is a mistake to call a study such as this literature. It is not intended to be anything more than an investigation, a statement of facts concerning the living conditions of a certain group of people in a certain area in Chicago. It is certainly source material, however, for literature. How many dramas exist in these pages—dramas gripping because of their stark reality!

In this small section a mile and a half wide, known as the Near North Side, are approximately 85,000 people, representing every type imaginable from the cream of the cream to the dregs of the dregs. Such a narrow slice divides the millionaire and the pauper! Standing in Little Hell, or Little Sicily, one can look across the buildings and see the Drake hotel, less than a mile away. And walking along the esplanade by the lake one knows (after he's read this study) that only three or four blocks west is the rooming house district, a map of which strangely and accurately coincides with a map showing where hundreds of Chicago suicides occur.

Mr. Zorbaugh takes the different sections of his chosen area and describes each. He inserts in each a document written by a person living in that place, and these human comments do more than mere facts and statistics ever can do to enlighten the reader. What if, as some one has said, a writer of one of the Gold Coast documents did spoof Mr. Zorbaugh? The very spoofing gives you a snapshot of the spoofed. And that's all he wanted.

Edmond Jennings, a Jesuit caught saying mass, is hanged, drawn, quartered as a traitor.

The same drama comes to a crazed volunteer of London, who cries on the streets of London that he is "king of Europe." Elizabeth forbids new buildings in London, the prisons are well stocked with Puritans, Calvinism and Lutheranism are being bootlegged into England. Shakespeare's "Titus Andronicus" is a love lyric of Publius Ovidius Naso, is newly published. The Faerie Queene is not in England's veins. J. C. C.

Now, You Learn What
American Soldiers Sing

"Sound Off," by Edward Arthur Dolph. (Cosmopolitan Book Corporation.)

A fine example of the possibilities of historical research outside the walls of libraries is the recently published "Sound Off," a compilation of more than 300 of the most colorful American soldier songs. In addition to fine-combing the most important general and military libraries, Lieut. Dolph drew on the memories of army men from Warsaw, Poland, to Tientsin, China.

You'll find any army song you ever heard of in this book, from "Yankee Doodle" to "Parley Voo" and "Keep Your Head Down, Fritzie Boy." It makes a jolly addition to a music library.

It Appears the War Grew
Too Tame for Heroine

"A Modern Girl," by W. B. Triltsch. (Frederick A. Stokes company.)

"A Modern Girl" is the story of a young American in France during the war. According to the jacket blurb it depicts "the young girl's soul, its struggle for growth amid the general and inevitable licentiousness of war time." Hilda, the heroine, is represented as beautiful, wilful, and irresistible. We will have to take the author's word for it, for she actually seems to deserve quite another set of adjectives such as "silly, absurd, and unnatural." The book is entertaining in a light way and borders on the sensational, as for instance, when Hilda takes to opium and the companionship of strange delinquents.

THE FRENCH DEBT.

Premier Poincaré with apparent sincerity is urging the ratification of the Mellon-Berenger debt settlement. He has told the financial and foreign affairs committees of the chamber of deputies that it contains the best settlement France has been able to make, although not as good as was desired. He has said that America regards the debt as just and unescapable and that France must accept that point of view.

Sensible American opinion also regards the terms of settlement as considerate and generous. In all the settlements the American taxpayer has accepted a burden which no strict accounting of the debt would have placed on him. It was in keeping with this policy of forbearance that congress before it took its recess endorsed President Hoover's recommendation that the French government be relieved of the necessity of meeting the payment of $400,000,000 due in August.

This sum represents the purchase of war stocks after the armistice. If the general debt settlement were ratified by France before August of this year the purchase price was merged into the general debt and became subject to its terms. If ratification failed the separate debt fell due. The American government relieved the French of any embarrassment which either payment or default might have caused, but that act in effect expressed a confidence that the French parliament is prepared to end the delay. Good faith is involved and the United States expects Poincaré to carry his point with the parliamentarians. It might also expect an acknowledgment of just dealings which will relieve the French of any apprehensions that they have been treated sharply or unreasonably.

MR. CARBARY'S BAD DEBTS.

Mr. Carbary of Kane county is sulking because the board of supervisors refused to pay his snooters' lunch and liquor bills. The state's attorney blames the failure of the board to endorse the debts of the crusade on the influence of the liquor interest or on the fact that the board doesn't trust its county prosecutor. Unless the bills are paid Mr. Carbary says that the Kane county dry injunction is doomed. Mr. Carbary's snooters won't snoot merely for the praise of the pulpit.

If Mr. Carbary is honestly interested in the motive of the board for repudiating his debts we can help him to an understanding. He may recall the De King incident. Mr. Carbary has not yet acquitted himself of irregularity in the investigation of the murder of Mrs. Joseph De King by a mob of his snooters and gunmen. Shortly after the murder Carbary completely exonerated the deputy who killed Mrs. De King and was eager to conduct the inquiry which should clear the officer. Then he reluctantly withdrew from the case when it seemed that Attorney General Carlstrom would take charge. But the prosecution of the deputy finally was maneuvered back to Carbary, and Carbary's only defense of his prosecution has been that the liquor interest was persecuting him. Mr. Carbary does not seem to understand that the conduct of his office during the De King affair is a legitimate reason for suspecting his accounts. Evidence of padded pay rolls and expense accounts has already been produced. The snooters whose lies caused the murder of Mrs. De King is under indictment for perjury. If the board should pay Carbary's bills without a satisfactory explanation from Carbary, the members would be guilty of condonation and almost complete complicity in a murdering expedition.

THE CLOSED BOOK.

A will has just been filed for probate in Indianapolis which leaves $50,000 in trust for varying periods up to 250 years. By the time the $50,000, by the beneficent operation of compound interest, will amount, in the estimate of the testator, to $160,000,000. Of that sum, $35,000,000 will go to the Art association of Indianapolis and an equal amount will establish a free conservatory of music. No less than $1,500,000 is to be devoted to building monumental approaches to the Indianapolis library, the art museum and the conservatory of music and to provide a community center for each grade school in the city. And so on.

Whether this type of will is legal must be left to the courts to determine in the light of the law on perpetuities. Whether it is legal or not, it is certainly ill advised. The intention of the testator to do something in a large way for posterity is in itself creditable, but the means chosen has been proved over and over again to be faulty, because no one can foretell with anything remotely approaching certainty what the world is going to be like even fifty years hence.

Take only one item of the program, the proposal to build community centers for grade schools, and consider that proposal in the light of changes in educational methods and equipment in the last hundred years. Two hundred years from now a community center may be as great an anachronism as a female seminary is today. A hundred years ago all the children in a school were taught by one teacher. Higher education for women was no more than a virtually nonexistent. Professional education was by apprenticeship. No one did and no one could foresee a hundred years ago the trend which education would take today. It is the purest vanity to assume that, in this regard, we are any wiser than our great-grandfathers.

Community centers may be useful things today. It is scarcely to be doubted that if they continue to appear to be worth their cost mankind in Indianapolis will manage to provide them as needed some time before 2129. Likewise art museums and conservatories of music. The probability is that, if Indianapolis has use for these ornaments, the city cannot and will not wait 200 years to get them. Philadelphia needed water works when Benjamin Franklin drew his will, but it had them long before the money which he set aside at compound interest for a hundred years was available for the purpose. As men go, Benjamin Franklin was possessed of astuteness in a high degree, but neither he nor any one else could unveil the future.

The maker of this will saw a need for handsome architecture and for community centers in Indianapolis. With his means the architecture was out of the question. He might have established one community center, but that seemed too small a gift. The odds are a million to one that the more modest gift would have been the wisest one.

PRESERVING THE CHICAGO PORTAGE.

The Chicago Historical society is now promoting the plan of preserving the old Chicago portage as a park. Projects to commemorate the site of this critical point in seventeenth and eighteenth century water communication from north to south have been considered for a number of years. We hope that the present program will be successful. The portage has sentimental and historical importance for Chicago, associations which we cannot afford to forget. There the canoes of Joliet, La Salle, Marquette, the Illinois brigade of the American Fur company, St. Cosme's party of Seminary chiefs, and Gov. Cass were carried from the Des Plaines river into the Chicago river on the trip to the lakes and from the Chicago into the Des Plaines on the trip to the Mississippi. John Kinzie made part of his living helping travelers at the portage, and this was Oulmette's chief occupation.

The property included in the Portage park plan is in two ownerships, the sanitary district and the forest preserve. The establishment and supervision of the park is appropriately forest preserve business. Therefore the sanitary district should dedicate the necessary land to the forest preserve. Certainly inertia or jealousy should not be allowed to interfere with or delay fulfillment of the plan to preserve forever the Chicago portage as an historical site.

SOME IT.

Observation of building operations in Wacker drive and of street repair work on Ohio street leads to the suggestion that the centennial of 1923 can be made a sure fire success by putting two steam shovels at work on the lake front and building a fence around one of them. The human race day may tire of looking at zebras, giraffes, the blood sweating behemoth, and the royal nomenclature, but its curiosity regarding a steam shovel is insatiable. It has it.

THE FREEDOM OF VOX POP IS TENDERED.

Ralph Count, the American horse which has tried the English track, ran second for the Acoet cup. Under English conditions of racing he was not quite good enough and his challenge failed. He might have turned back an English invasion, but over there he is not the best horse, and that seems to be settled. Until we get some invaders on American race tracks, as Mr. Hertz proposes, we'll have to look for revenge elsewhere. Possibly the Yale-Harvard track team can give it by taking the Oxford-Cambridge team in their meet. That's a hope. If it were the Illinois-California team it would be a cinch, but the eastern boys will do the best they can.

Editorial of the Day

A CHICAGO GOVERNOR.

[The Rock Island, Ill. Argus.]

Some Chicago political leaders, supported to some extent by business interests and private individuals, exasperated, as they claim, by the taxes imposed upon Chicago people for the benefit of downstate projects, are planning it is said to elect a Chicago governor for four years hence, who can be depended upon to exercise the veto power and in this manner defeat revenue bills which work no direct benefits to Chicago.

This plan might conceivably be successful, as in the last state primaries Cook county cast 73,003 votes for the state candidate, and downstate 70,216. However, in Cook county 118,571 Democrats voted for the Democratic candidate, who had no opposition. In case Cook county Democrats would join the Republicans in supporting a Chicago candidate the downstate lead would be overcome by more than 50,000.

Considering this as a possibility, and conceding also that taxes should not be imposed upon Chicago which are obviously unjust, were such a plan to be carried out by a bipartisan Cook county vote and a governor elected who would use his veto power as a whip, Illinois would be precipitated into a controversy which would have the most disastrous results both for Chicago and for downstate. Legislation would be at a standstill and animosity would be engendered, which would take many long years to heal. The state as a whole would suffer, which means that Chicago would participate to the full in the unhappy results. Retaliation would follow—of course—and a downstate majority in the assembly, even if handicapped by a governor subservient to Chicago, would not be without opportunities to embarrass Chicago.

Conciliatory counsels should prevail. Honest taxpayers of Cook county who think they have a real grievance should be heard and their complaints given due consideration. A downstate majority should not use its power unwisely. There should be no taxing to Chicago, but, on the other hand, Chicagoans who pay taxes and who have many burdens of a local character to carry, should not be forced to stagger along under loads which are all too heavy in comparison to downstate taxes. In other words, justice and right should be the watchwords.

HEALTH TRAINING IN SCHOOLS.

ABOUT seven years ago the commonwealth fund directors decided to conduct an experiment in health training through a public school system. They finally concluded that Fargo, N. D., met the requirements. It was a medium sized city with about the proper proportion of population between natives and foreign born, and as between industrial workers, farmers, merchants, and professional groups.

The schools had had some health supervision, but the community had been fairly well prepared for health work. It was felt that whatever was demonstrated at Fargo could be fairly well applied in the general run of cities of about that size. The program called for a five year trial or demonstration. Miss Brown, who was the superintendent, has told how it was done in a book entitled "Teaching Health in Fargo." Her story relates the method or methods, or perhaps we should say, the lack of method. The objective was to teach health by means of reading, writing, arithmetic, and geography; to establish health habits and the health point of view; to make the children think health and, automatically, to make it a part of their behavior, their habits; and to convey information to teachers and parents, permitted to do a good deal as they chose in the development of method of technique.

There was a nursing service and medical supervision, but that was the purpose of protecting the children against disease, caring for their ill and getting their defects cared for. It was the service of the main theme, but was not directly related to it. The main objective was to have the teachers lead the children into the ways of health habits, and to have the parents help with the child's initiative. What they called their main routines were six in number:

1. Continuous observation of the individual child by the teacher. This included health as well as deportment and scholarship.
2. Keeping of health habit records at school and at home.
3. Health instruction by the teacher with reference to all subjects of health and then, if necessary, to the physician.
4. Taking and recording of weight and height and calculation of growth.
5. Relating health behavior to growth and well-being.
6. Serving milk at school.

ALL RIGHT TO SWIM.

- Mrs. M. writes:
1. I am 4 1/2 months pregnant now and in about a month the swimming season begins. Will it be all right for me to swim?
 2. I read that the arms should not be put above the head. Will this do any harm?
 3. I want to sleep with my arms above my head. Will this harm?
 4. My blood pressure is 145 now. Is that too high?

REPLY.

1. Yes.
2. No.
3. No.
4. Yes.

DANGER IS NOT GREAT.

M. S. writes:

1. A's brothers and sisters have chickenpox. A is 15 years old. He has three children, C, D, and E. None of these children has had the disease except C, who is 12 years old. D is 12 years old and E is 10 years old. Would B, D, and E have any chance of taking chickenpox if A visited them?
2. Can a person have chickenpox more than once?
3. If C is in the room where A's brothers and sisters were would she give the disease to B, E, and D?

REPLY.

1. The danger would not be great. However, the risk is not small. A is in contact with his brothers and sisters and should be quarantined. This is because he might be guilty of gross negligence or he might be developing the disease at the time of a visit to susceptibles, such as B, D, and E.
2. No—practically.
3. Depends on the closeness of the contact. The rule is as stated in 1.

LOOKS HOPELESS.
Chicago, June 18.—(Friend of the People.)—A young lady came to this country from Italy in 1923 as a tourist and is still in this country. She was married in June, 1923, to a student who also came from Italy, but he was deported in December, 1923, on account of his time limit being up. She now wants to know if she can stay in this country and if so what steps are required.

M. C. A. writes:

It appears that there is no provision under the present immigration law whereby this student may be returned to this country by his wife, who is residing here legally. However, it is suggested that the student in question apply to the American consul nearest his place of residence abroad, who will advise him fully concerning his particular case.

MORTGAGE OVERDUE.

Elkhart, Ind., June 18.—(Legal Friend of the People.)—I have a cottage in Chicago on which a mortgage is due. I cannot pay it. Will I lose all that I have paid in? I am a widow and do not know a great deal about real estate.

A. S. writes:

If you permit the matter to go by default you will probably lose everything. Ordinarily it is advisable for a person in your position to employ a lawyer to sell his equity.

SCHEDULED FOR REPAIR.

Chicago, June 17.—(Friend of the People.)—Can you tell me if there is any prospect of having the 15th street, south of 55th street to the alley, paved or filled in?

The water remains in large pools for several days and rain falls and becomes stagnant.

The macadam pavement in Euclid avenue south of 55th street is on the 15th ward schedule for repair this summer and the work will be done within a short time.

THE GIRL WHO

READ THE ADS.

Folks used to say I was queer. When they thought that my back was turned, But mine was a long range ear. And most of the time it burned. She's really quite nice, they'd say, But her face and her skin, My Dear! Why should any one look that way When there is a drug store near?

Then, lo, in some magazines I learned what they meant from the ads Of pastes and emollient creams. Endorsed by ladies with heads. Sappho builds beauty, writes A. But B favors Poro, it seems. While Sphinx gives that charm distingué Says Gladys, Duchess of Weems. Alone! I sped like a deer To buy Sappho, Poro and Sphinx; If one would make me a dear, All three should make me a mix. Now when I stroll down the way I can feel the envious peer With glances that audibly say, There must be a drug store near!

Watch th' Light!

"Watch th' light!" said the policeman to us very sternly yesterday at the first crossing we tried to make in the loop. We watched the light for quite a while. We told the policeman that we were beginning to get bored and asked him what we would do now. "Don't get fresh," said the policeman. We passed hurriedly on to the next corner. By that time we had thought up a good one. When the policeman said, "Watch the light," we decided to answer, "We haven't got a watch." That we thought was such a rollicking retort that even a policeman would smile. But the green light was on and we had to wait so that we could spring our little quip. "Wot's the big idea?" said the policeman. "Are you tied, or anchored, or something?" "It's hard to be jocular with a policeman," we said. "Is there any humor?" Or have they too much? It's quite a deep problem.

It Won't Be Long Now.

The dean of women down at the Uni. of Indiana says the girls must not, shall not, and will not wear tan suits of any description; also they must not wear bloomers even in summer. Oh, gosh! Now, adays the Truly Good tell us what we mustn't drink, what we mustn't eat, what we mustn't read, what plays we mustn't see, what we mustn't wear, and what we mustn't smoke. But, dorgones 'em, we can still eat onions if we want to. But, any day now, any hour, and moment, they may take our colors. And when they do that, then, by heck, they've gotta fight!

Red Rambler.

There's a red rambler rose bush in my yard and just now it is as scarlet as a Magdalene. In the sun it is like some ancient scarlet altar—red, flaming bush where Moses took off his sandals but at dusk—when the whitish moon is a cameo at the throat of the cloak of night—the red rambler is a dye as deep as the blood from our Savior's side, and the whole bending bush is like unto plump tapestries before the portals of a sacred temple. What is a red rose? Is it the blood of a trooper who fell in war's forefront? Perhaps it is the ancient stain that was upon a cross when they took Him down and laid Him in a sepulchre—the red dye that runs in June, month of faith, after the long December of unbelief. But like all love, my red rambler will not see the moon of another month, for when the moon of June was but a silver scimitar thrust down into the darkness of the west, the buds were just swelling on the bush—rubes locked in emerald cups; when the moon quartered and away up in the sky like a rocker on the cradle of one newly born, the first full moon burst from the buds with the breath of babies; but the other night, when the moon came to full, the bush glowed like strong coals through the ash-gray veil of midsummer's semi-darkness, and became a wayside shrine for all the dear dead who graves the poor roadside flowers withered years ago; for my red rambler laden with the offerings of June is the floral gift of the gods to those who sleep in coffins by day and wander the paths of space by night. AMORIGONE.

Lagniappe.

"THE TIME will come," says old Art Brisbane, gloomily, "when the last man alive will stand on the earth alone, the sun will die by the loss of heat, and the earth and the last man will die with it." Which makes us feel certain that either a heartless municipality has raised the taxes on Art's New York property, that somebody walked off with his fountain pen.

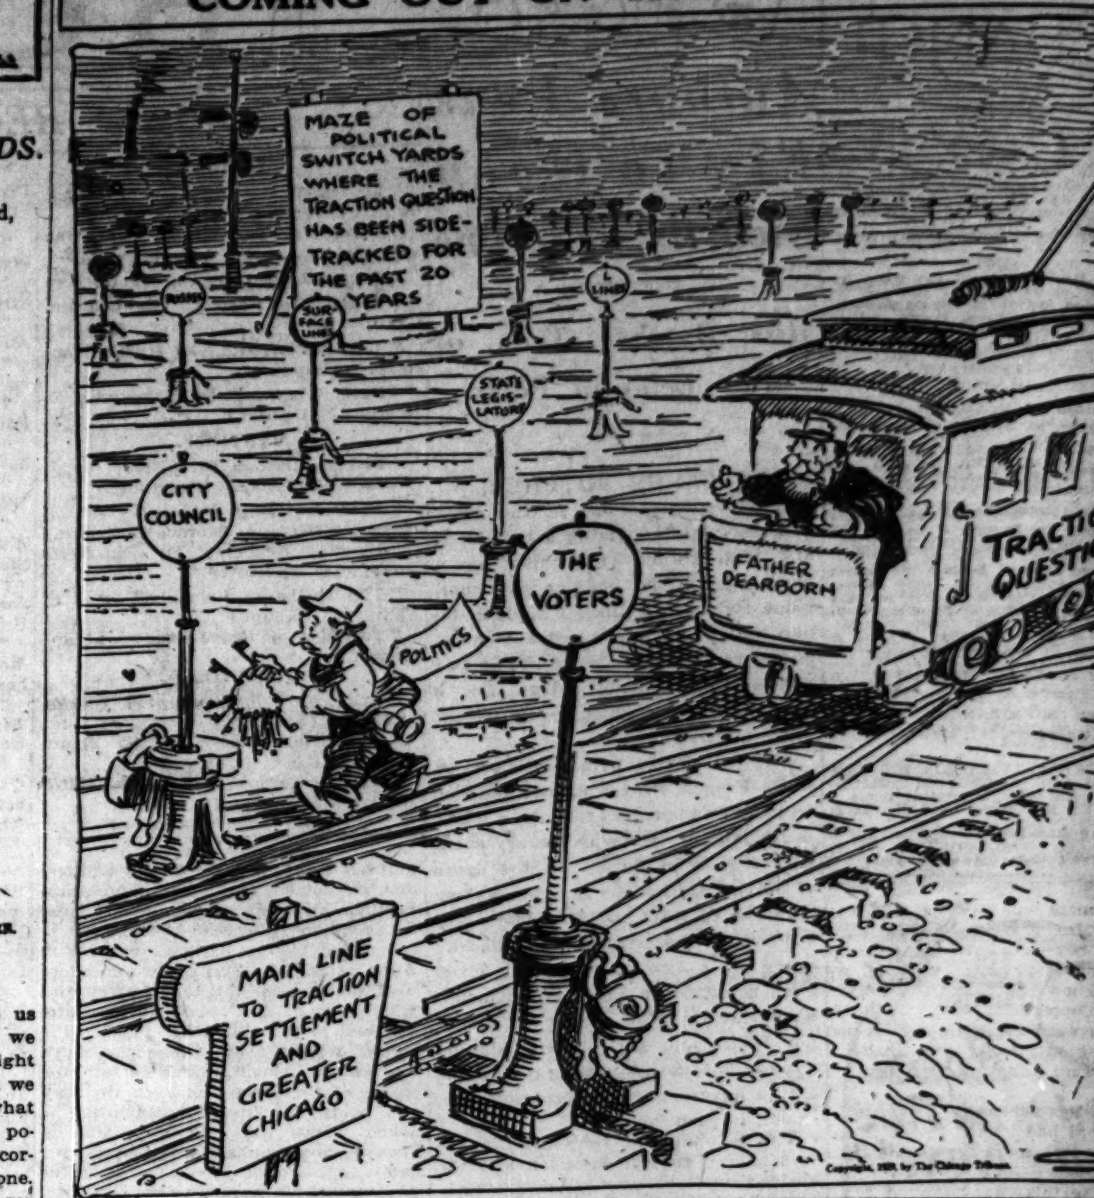

PREMIER POINCARÉ talks seven hours in the House of Deputies on the subject of the debt pact and one of the deputies faints. They're made of sterner stuff in our own U. S. House. Nobody ever faints when Senator Heflin holds forth for hours and hours. They may fall asleep or work crossword puzzles, or get in a huddle and tell funny stories, but nobody ever faints or dies. Anyhow, not yet.

A FISHERMAN came into port at Bangor, Me., yesterday and exhibited a seven pound codfish, in whose stomach was found a quart bottle of whisky. Another trick of the run runners; they're educating codfish to carry hooch from Canada to the U. S. A.

DENNIS KING! Radio! Tomorrow night! W-G-N, 10:10 p. m., daylight saving time, to 10:40. Elsewhere, 9:10 to 9:40. Fervens sake, don't write in next week and say we didn't tell yuh.

SH! NOT A WORD! Don't move! Don't speak! But it looks as though Chicago was on the way to (now, not a word of this to anybody) dig—we don't dare say this right out loud, but you know—a long hole in the ground with street cars in it. SH! SH!

COMING OUT ON THE RIGHT TRACK?

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 22, 1864.

BERMUDA HUNDREDS. June 20.—Yesterday was comparatively quiet. Our lines now extend some distance beyond Petersburg, up to the Appomattox river. Grant and Butler went to the James river and had an interview with Admiral Lee of our fleet.

NEW YORK.—The New York Tribune's special of the 19th says: "The fourth day of the battle of Petersburg ended last night. We attacked three times during the day. Warren joined on the left, taking one line of works and pressing up to another and the last Hancock and Burnside, the enemy found more opposition. The former has gained half a mile, the latter more. It is said there are 20,000 rebel troops in Petersburg and they are being continually reinforced."

WASHINGTON.—The Evening Star says the President and his youngest son left the city on the 20th on the ordnance steamer Baltimore to pay a trip to Grant and see how affairs are progressing on the James river.

WASHINGTON.—Secretary Stanton announces that Sherman was premature in proclaiming the flight of the rebels from their position. The enemy still holds the Kenesaw mountain.

CHICAGO.—We understand that Col. Wood of the museum has just imported from the establishment of Mrs. Tinsand of London an elegant collection of figures in wax.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 22, 1899.

CHICAGO.—South Park Commissioner William Best announced that the ban on automobiles practically was removed, that no further arrests, at least for the present, would be made and that homeless vehicles would be permitted to use the streets and boulevards of the south side unmolested.

SOUTHAMPTON, England.—Senator M. A. Hanna arrived at Southampton, England, yesterday, on his way to the time and was traveling simply for his health.

NEW YORK.—Paced by an engine flying at the rate of a mile a minute, Charles Murphy, the veteran racing wheelman, whizzed over a mile course laid in the tracks of the Long Island railroad, faster than ever man rode a bicycle before. His time was one minute and five seconds.

COLOMBO, Island of Ceylon.—The United States cruiser Olympia, with Admiral Dewey aboard, arrived here from Singapore.

CHICAGO.—The man who 25 years ago murdered Gilbert W. Gates, brother of John W. Gates of Chicago, has been found. After years of silence, Mrs. Cornelia Street of Chicago, sister of the murdered man, Alexander Jester, has made known his identity, and the stone shaft for 12 years has accused the murderer of the crime. He is now 80 years old, seeking health, west.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 22, 1919.

WINNIPEG, Man.—Winnipeg, strike torn since May 15, is under martial law. After bloody fighting during the day between thousands of strikers and the police, in which one man was killed, several injured probably fatally, and more than a score hurt less seriously, Mayor Charles F. Gray formally turned the city over to the federal military forces. Rioting has now ceased.

BERLIN.—A new German cabinet has been formed under the premiership of Herr Gustav Bauer.

LONDON.—Most of the great German fleet lay at the bottom of Scapa Flow tonight, scuttled by the men who surrendered last November without firing a shot. The German crews, apparently carrying out a well arranged plot, opened the sea cocks of their vessels after hoisting the imperial ensign to the mastsheads and attempted to escape to the shore in small boats.

MAYOR DEVER'S POLICE CHIEF. Chicago, June 18.—"Let him who is without sin—" and Morgan A. (Alibi) Collins tosses a pebble and hops on a boat for parts unknown.

When that gentleman took office his first endeavor, with the aid and advice of a few captains, was to disorganize the department, and he succeeded admirably.

When he relegated the lieutenants to sergeant's duties he left no commanding officer in charge of the various stations or districts after the departure of the captains, which was generally around 5 o'clock. From that time until 9 p. m. the next morning, when the captain arrived, there was no supervision of the men or district by any superior officer. Sergeants called the roll, assigned them to a post or auto and sometimes drove the car with the patrolman in the rear seat, and in many instances sergeants were on traffic duty blowing a whistle for eight hours.

From 9 p. m. until 3 a. m. the streets were given over to hoodlums, hoodlums and racketeers, and were it not for the fear of the bureau squads the criminal element would have taken complete possession of the city.

There was no discipline—it was every man for himself. Patrolmen and sergeants on post duty, mingling and fraternizing and stepping up alleys and into hallways to get away from pipe-smoking.

There was no initiative, no incentive for any work on the part of the men, and the morale of the department was shattered.

Promotions were made as a result of a financial friendship with some political power or were given to men whose sole claim to ability was a relationship to some politician, and whose efficiency was judged by the number of votes controlled by that same politician.

Important cases were handled by inexperienced, incompetent patrolmen and when the case was solved the blame was placed upon the trial judge or upon the state's attorney, instead of where it rightfully belonged, the police department.

As a member of a committee that sought an audience with Mayor Dever to expose conditions as they then existed in the department and to seek a remedy, we were politely informed that he would not interfere with the policy of his chief and we were referred to Chief Collins.

Collins refused to listen to the committee or to remedy conditions in the department and the resultant internal strife, indifference and demoralization of the department were the contributing causes of Mayor Dever's defeat. Mayor Thompson was quick to sense what was going on and before a committee could wait on him he pledged himself in his campaign talks to restore the department to its former good standing. When Collins stepped out of office his sole legacy was a disintegrated, demoralized, indifferent body of men whose only ambition was to put in eight hours a day and draw a pay check with the least possible exertion.

The miracle of it all is that so much has been accomplished in so short a time by Collins' successors.

Antoinette Tells How to Make Your Marcel Last a While

One of the annoying features the day after you spent a perfectly good dollar and a quarter for a marcel is to find the curls completely gone out of the last "die" of hair around the ears. From this one marcel iron wave up and around the head, yesterday's work may still remain perfect. But these straightened out ends that your hat can't well cover, since they're an important part of the face trimmings, are annoying to contemplate.

Unless you have unusual skill you can't handle a marcel iron job yourself. So for immediate relief you heat the electric iron and turn the ends up which, when done, hasn't any relation in smooth, soft undulations to the rest of the head. Or, perhaps you use curlers and the result is apt to be frizzles instead of the neatly turned marcel finish.

It's frightfully difficult to protect these ends during face cleaning and bathing operations. Some women obviously have the skill. The majority haven't. It means rumpling the waves, pinning it back behind the ears and adding a protective band of some sort for extra caution.

Some success with curlers is achieved if one wishes to avoid the frizzled look to the hair ends, by using a small amount of oil or vaseline before the ends are tucked up. If one uses the curling iron to take care of these ends, the iron should be only mildly heated. If it is hot, the effect is almost bound to be "wooly."

Speaking about hair and curls and letting it grow, an observer said there ought to be a law passed forbidding a woman over 30 from appearing publicly in the growing stage if she has a penchant for ringlets. Only thin necked and young ones should be permitted the privilege. A short-necked woman of indeterminate age does look blowy with her near-shoulder length hair hanging in curls or semi-curls below her hat. An inconspicuous way of managing her hair during the trying period is her one best bet.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Blueberry Dainties.

We get a good many more berries per quart when we buy blueberries than when we buy most other berries, as can be proved easily enough, there for the extra expense per bottle is more seeming than actual. But if you like blueberries this may be but a secondary consideration. And if you like this lovely fruit or the lovely health it brings, you can but rejoice now that we get it early from the Gulf coast regions, midseason from hereabouts, and late from Canada, but even there, where it grows abundantly and deliciously, it is picked from July through September. Blueberry pies are national to French Canada and just try any eating place in Quebec in September and see if you do not find blueberries in some form on the menu.

An excellent way to pick over blueberries, almost an imperative way, is to spread a hand towel on a dinner plate and from these pick out and reject the imperfect, and any foreign matter. If you work at a mass of berries they soon seem messy and you have to shake them up too often.

Glazed Blueberries—These may be served hot and charming for breakfast and with cream, if we choose. Pick over and wash the berries, doing this over night or several hours, at any rate, before the meal. If they are wet sugar will lump on them. Just sprinkle them with sugar, then put them in a frying pan in which there is just a little melted butter—not browned. Shake them for about two minutes, or until a sirup forms in the pan and each berry looks like a dark mirror, or put them into tart shells to serve with whipped cream. The latter are attractive little desserts, and the former are about as pretty a thing as you can find for certain glass saucers.

Blueberry Muffins—Wash and drain for several hours one cup of picked over blueberries. These are to be rolled in flour and added to a fluffy batter and the flour must not get up on them. The batter: One-fourth cup butter, one-fourth cup sugar, two eggs, one cup milk, two cups of flour if needed, but do not destroy fluff of developing batter, four teaspoons of baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt.

Have small muffin tins buttered and hot. Work up the batter and sugar, separate the eggs. Beat up the yolks with a little of cold milk. Add sifted dry ingredients gradually. Fold in the stiff whites and then floured berries. Use two tablespoons of the flour on them.

Husband Goes on Silence Jag and Drives Wife Crazy

BY DORIS BLAKE.

What would you do if you were married to a mate who goes on silence retreats every so often? Imagine a woman having to stand for these dumb sessions over the entire period of her twenty-one years of marriage!

"If we have the least little disagreement, which is natural enough between any husband and wife," she writes, "he will not speak to me for weeks and sometimes months at a time. It pleases me just as well if he doesn't talk to me, but it is not very pleasant in the house during these times. The children, four of them, hate it and can't understand."

"I have been patient and forgiving always ready when he comes out of his silences—but this is the last straw. For the last two months he hasn't spoken to me at all. Rather than face another spell I'm going to run away."

"Mrs. O."

It's not an uncommon experience—only perhaps more protracted than is usual with the dumb retreaters. I don't know whether this ailment is classified along with other insanity symptoms, but it certainly would indicate a terribly unbalanced mentality. How much better to explode for an hour than to go gloomy for weeks or months! In fact, I read not long ago the advice of some nerve specialist that a good outburst of temper isn't bad at all for the high strung individual. One good blowoff and the atmosphere cleared. But there's nothing high strung about an individual who can keep his tongue glued to the roof of his mouth for weeks. He's just plain queer—or, she—as it happens to be in some households.

The cure in the case of Mrs. O. should have been tried after the first attack. The only remedy I know was practiced successfully by the harassed wife of one of these silent (but not strong) gents. She took up his cue when he had recovered after a week's dumb gray and for seven days he couldn't get a word civil or uncivil out of her. The effect in this instance was magic.

FARM and GARDEN

Warm weather has brought along with it the usual crop of poultry pests, according to reports coming to this department recently. Red mites are causing trouble in some sections. They thrive in warm weather and become more serious during midsummer unless they are immediately checked. Poultry men at the midwest agricultural experiment stations regard the red mite as one of the most troublesome, though only about one-twenty-fifth of an inch or less in length. They are difficult to find because they hide during the day. R. L. Cochran of the station at Ames, Ia., says that red mites make up in number what they lack in size. He finds that they not only increase rapidly but can live for months without food. They live by sucking blood from chickens. It is certain that red mites kill or stunt many chickens and cause hens to stop laying, according to Mr. Cochran.

The mites lay white eggs about the roosts. The eggs hatch in about four days and the mites are mature in a few days. They live in crevices and crawl out at night to suck the blood from birds.

Mr. Cochran recommends the following for red mites: First clean up with, ventilate the house with an open front and plenty of sunlight. Build roosts with slatted boards and spray the roosts, walls, and boards and nests with a full solution of two parts oil to one part stock dip, or five gallons of kerosene to forty gallons of water. Repeat treatments four to six times during the spring, summer and fall in one application following the other five or six days.

Baby's Sense of Touch Should Not Be Starved

By Edna Wallace Hopper

Mrs. Brown has prepared two booklets, one on "Proverbs and Quips for Children" and another called "Books to Be Read to the Children or by Them," which will be sent free on receipt of stamped, self-addressed envelopes.

Here's Saturday—and the last of the week, with reams unwritten on the subject of expecting too much of the very little boy or girl. Of the five too great expectations mentioned on Sunday only one is left: expecting the almost baby to touch or three or four year old not to touch—to keep his hands off.

I don't know how I can put it most emphatically to convey to those young mothers who are so mistaken as to expect their little children not to touch this and not to touch that. Perhaps it would be best expressed by telling them that to deny a child satisfaction of his sense of touch is as much of a deprivation as it would be to refuse him a drink of water when he's parched with thirst. His sense of touch is the first thing that brings his world to him—this world, so full, so unexplored. And it must be satisfied.

What do you yourself do when some one shows you a necklace, a piece of early American glass, a cigarette case, a new golf club? Don't you usually say, "Let me see it?" And don't you usually proceed to take it in your hands?

Even if you can get as close to it as you want, are you quite satisfied, do you feel as if you had thoroughly seen it until you've touched it, too? You may have held dozens of necklaces, vases, and golf clubs in your hands. You know how they feel, generally speaking. Yet you have an almost irresistible impulse to lay your hands upon this one.

Think, then, how the baby feels who sees a thing, but who has never yet held one like it in his hands. Yet he says to him, "No, no—baby mustn't touch."

Baby must touch! He must learn with his hands—man's great tool in life. He must satisfy that instinct. He learns his world by feeling hardness, softness, roughness, smoothness, shape, weight; he must be allowed to know what the material things in his world feel like—how they work. If there are some things I would be anxious for him to play with or touch even if held by some one else, he can be easily taught to leave those things alone, provided his whole sense of touch is not starved. This is not theory. This is not applicable to special conditions. This can be worked out practically in an ordinary home.

The skillful mother lets her baby or little child learn, at some time, the feel of things he may not play with. She lets him play with many things that are not toys. Why not?

She lets him handle pans to fit into each other or to cover and uncover. She lets him take them off the shelves and learn to put them back. If he can't use her pencils, she buys him paper and pencils of his own. If she can't let him mix her cake, she can give him ingredients of his own. Nor does this make more work for a mother. It makes less. Then, having put dangerous and fragile things out of his reach and having satisfied his sense of touch, she can easily teach him to leave undisturbed those belongings that she does not want him to have.

In finishing this small series, I must add that this has not been a week of theory. It has been written from experience. Not expecting too much of the little boy or girl and knowing, too, how much to expect, produce a sunny, satisfied, companionable child.

(Copyright, 1929, by The Chicago Tribune.)

Bright Sayings of the Children

"We had taken our guests to their train, and in returning, used the outer drive, which was new to my son. When we reached 28th street, I said to my son, 'There's a machine Reese hospital. That's where you were born.' He said, 'Let's stop there a minute. I want to see if Mr. Reese will recognize me.'"

J. L. K.

"Our small son Robert wandered away from home one day and a policeman took him. When he took him to the station another policeman recognized the child and telephoned me he was there all safe and he would bring him home in an hour or so when he had a trip out our way. While at the station the men made much over Robert, one even buying him an ice cream cone."

"The next day, who should appear at the station all by himself but Robert again and he proudly announced: 'He's a Webster. I'm lost again.'"

Your Personality—your greatest charm

By Edna Wallace Hopper

Always cultivate your own personality. It is best expressed in the style of your hair. Sit before your mirror and experiment—for hours, if necessary. A distinctive way of dressing your hair will give you striking individuality. Failure to express personality is what causes many a girl and woman to be neglected in this busy world.

To help you make the most of your hair I created my Wave and Sheen. It gives new softness, almost fluffy, but always controllable. With the aid of Wave and Sheen and a few combs I set my own wave, which means that it stays in place. I have seen in my audience hair marveled at by hair, to glowing women, and asked the secret of my wave.

There is no secret. Wave and Sheen is sold at all toilet counters.

The Valise Opened.

The train stopped. I rose from my seat with alacrity in order to follow a pretty girl I had been observing in the seat across from mine. She was the sort of a girl I had wanted to meet for sometime, but one cannot introduce one's self just any old way to a girl on a train. I thought it was luck that she should get off the train at my station. On the platform outside I saw her pick up two heavy suitcases and start away. "Luck again," I thought. "I'll try to carry the load."

I offered assistance. The girl accepted. I took up the suitcases and started walking, when suddenly a look

ILLINOIS COLLEGE
LAYS PLANS FOR
ITS CENTENARYProgram Will Call for Many Features.

Jacksonville, Ill., June 21.—[Special.]—Illinois college of Jacksonville, the first college in the state to graduate a collegiate class, will celebrate its centennial anniversary on Oct. 12 to 15 inclusive. The institution was founded in 1829 by a group of seven young men from Yale.

The anniversary will be featured by the dedication of two new buildings, the Tanner Memorial library, costing $200,000, and Barker hall, costing $75,000. The latter will be a dining hall and clubhouse for the men and is the gift of Dr. and Mrs. George E. Barker of Chicago.

Football Game a Feature.

The official program of the centennial will open Saturday, Oct. 12, with a homecoming football game between Illinois college and Monmouth college. This will be followed by a student and alumni parade and in the evening will occur the "I" club banquet and Shakespearean play. Sunday will be given over to religious services and the dedication of the Tanner Memorial library building.

Gifts Are Announced.

At the recent centennial commencement of the college, when the largest class in the history of the school was graduated, gifts of twenty thousand dollars were announced, which will be used toward the construction of the new library building and the development of Andrew Jackson athletic field. Among the prominent alumni and former students of Illinois college were William Jennings Bryan, Richard Yates, war governor of Illinois; William H. Herndon, Lincoln's law partner; John Wesley Powell, first explorer of the Grand canyon, and Congressman and Senator Richard Yates of Illinois.

PEACEHINT HEARD AND DENIED IN
ALLEN A STRIKE

Kenosha, Wis., June 21.—A fresh controversy is raging here between the leaders of the striking knitters' union and the Allen A. company.

The American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery workers will meet at Philadelphia Monday to consider an agreement recommended by a joint committee of Philadelphia knitters and manufacturers. Copies purporting to give the terms of the agreement declare that the knitters' union is about to accept in principle the machine system, the cause of the present strike at the Allen A. knitting mills here. This is denied by Louis F. Bodens, strike leader, and by Earl Elms of Philadelphia, president of the national knitters' union.

In spite of these denials copies of the agreement secured from an authoritative source contain a provision that the two machine systems be applied to not more than 15 per cent of plant capacity in the first six months and thereafter the system may be increased at a rate not to exceed 25 per cent in any six months period. The knitter, under this agreement, is to receive one cent per dozen less for all sections over 15 and must pay his helper or apprentice from his earnings.

The agreement further provides, it is said, that the manufacturers subscribing to this agreement shall employ none but union help. It also provides for a council of arbitration and the union agrees there will be no strikes, walkouts or shutouts during the period of the contract.

Peace Conference Held on "Red Book" Dispute

Representatives of the doctors, lawyers, dentists and other professional men met yesterday with officials of the Bodens Hosiery corporation in connection with the refusal of the professional men to pay for special listing in the "Red Book" or classified telephone directory printed by the Bodens firm. Officials of the printing company agreed to consider a number of suggestions set forth by the professional men as reasons why the charge of $4 for listing in the classified book is unjust.

'Dream Ship' as
Radio FavoriteTells Why He Rates It as
One of the Best.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

W-G-N announcers last evening were asking of the radio audience, "What is your favorite W-G-N program?" All right, let them know.

One of my favorites is the orchestral Dream Ship that nightly anchors off shore at 11 o'clock, especially when its program is on the order of that of last night. "Midsummer Night's Serenade" by Albeniz, a prelude by Lindow, and "Vell Dance" by Goldmark. It was a fifteen minute program of a penitence orchestra atmosphere and coloring.

Oscar Tangblad, a cornetist of attainments, lent some virtuosic notes in quite a fascinating variety to what was in other respects a fine orchestral concert from WLS, 9 to 10. The work played by Mr. Tangblad was "Grand Russian Fantasy" by Jules Levy, an American cornetist. The playing of the entire "Second Suite" from "La Source" by Debussy, was the chief attraction on the orchestral part of the concert.

The weekly Russian choral program from New York, through WMAQ, 9 to 9:30, is suffering from too much inconsequential announcing. This concert is presented by a company of capable Russian singers, and their uninterrupted singing would put this concert over big. I am outspoken about this program because it is one of my favorites, even though it does come from New York.

ETTELSON HOLDS
TODD IS ELIGIBLE
FOR SCHOOL POST

James Todd, attorney for the board of education, is legally eligible to hold that position for the remaining two years of his four year term, according to an opinion given yesterday by Corporation Counsel in connection with the fight to the office was questioned by Frank S. Righelmer, assistant attorney for the board, during a controversy which arose two months ago after Todd had recommended the dismissal of Righelmer and five other employees of the legal department as an economy measure.

An opinion was sought by the finance committee after Righelmer had asserted that Todd's residence in Oak Park made his position questionable. The corporation counsel announced that the fact that Todd maintained a residence in Chicago from which he worked made his position unassailable.

Seventeen of forty-two refrigerator cars in a freight train loaded with dressed beef were derailed last night on the Illinois Central main line between 77th and 78th streets, paralleling the main line tracks, when a car jumped the track and sixteen behind it were derailed. The train was carrying a load of dressed beef. No one was hurt, nor was traffic delayed.

APPEAL TO COURT
AGAINST BAN ON
FREE USE OF LAKE

While residents of the summer colony at Lake Zurich, northwest of Chicago, last night were preparing to go into court to fight a ban placed on use of the lake by August Froelich and George W. Pearce, who claim to hold deed to property, which forms the lake bottom, Attorney General Carlstrom returned an opinion in another case that somewhat similar waters are navigable and belong to the state.

Mr. Froelich, who is mayor of the town of Lake Zurich, and Pearce had posted a list of prices they expected to charge for boating and fishing. They had two young Chicago women arrested when they attempted to sail on the lake over the week-end. The girls were released with a warning when they argued before a justice of the peace. Attorney General Carlstrom's opinion referred to Diamond Lake, where several claimants to the bottom land a few weeks ago attempted to control use of the water and surrounding property. Attorney Peter B. Nelson, representing the indignant residents of the Lake Zurich shores, is expected to apply for an injunction in the Circuit court at Waikanae next Monday.

PERIL OF CHINESE
CIVIL WAR ENDED;
FENG TO BE PAIDRebel Chief's Army to
Get $1,500,000.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
SEANGHAI, June 21.—The strained situation between Gen. Chiang Kai-shek and Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang, which for several months has threatened China with a new civil war, was definitely eased today. Gen. Chiang left for Tientsin to participate in a conference of military and political officials, including Gen. Feng and Gen. Yen Hui-shan, at which it is hoped to reach a peaceful adjustment. Gen. Feng is expected to leave soon on his much discussed trip abroad, thus permitting Gen. Chiang and the central government to reorganize Gen. Feng's 200,000 troops, as well as assume authority over the finance and administration of the northwest territories of Shensi, Kansu and Chinese Turkistan.

$1,500,000 to Feng's Army.
Details of the peaceful adjustment have not been disclosed, but it is stated the government has agreed to assume the responsibility of financing Gen. Feng's troops, for which $1,500,000 will be appropriated. Gen. Feng's army in the future will be under nominal control of Gen. Yen, although most of Gen. Feng's subordinate officers will remain at their posts, including Gen. Lu Chung-lin, who resigned as acting minister of war. Whether Gen. Feng is actually retiring is disputed, but it is reported the government has appropriated $1,000,000 to pay his traveling expenses.

See Peace at Hand.
X. L. Tong, Yale graduate and previously vice minister of foreign affairs, who is a member of Gen. Feng's party and has been a refugee in Shanghai, said the peace prospects are now eighty per cent favorable and it is likely that Gen. Feng will go into early retirement, probably occupying himself with reconstruction projects, including famine relief in the northwest territories. Mr. Tong also said it likely that most of Gen. Feng's subordinates will resume their positions in the government. The Nationalist foreign ministry stated today that the crisis with Soviet Russia over the raid on the Soviet consulate at Harbin has lessened and a complete break of relations is unlikely.

HENRY FORD IN PERIL
WHEN FLASH POWDER
BLAST BURNS THREE

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—With Henry Ford standing only 10 feet away, a can of flashlight powder exploded on a pier at the foot of West 14th street this afternoon, burning two men and a woman who had been watching newspaper photographers snap the automobile manufacturer.

The three were taken on board the Berengaria, where they were treated by Ship's Surgeon J. B. Doherty.

Mr. Ford had gone to the pier to meet the Berengaria, on which his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Ford, and their two children were returning from Europe.

LAST CANADIAN
WAR VETERAN
RETURNS HOME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
MONTREAL, Que., June 21.—The last Canadian soldier to return home from the great war arrived back in his native land today. He is Maj. J. S. Gillies, who has the distinction of being known as the last member of the Canadian expeditionary forces to be demobilized.

He has just finished eleven years under surgical treatment for his war wounds, chiefly confined to his lower jaw, which was shot away. The surgeons appear to have worked a miracle. He looks practically normal, talks normally, and can smile in a captivating manner. Maj. Gillies, who expressed pleasure at again being home, admitted that he had suffered considerably under forty-four operations necessary to complete his cure. The operations were watched with interest by plastic surgery authorities from many of the surgical clinics of Europe.

Maj. Gillies will go west to visit his sister in Regina and his brother in Winnipeg. His sister's husband is Judge H. J. MacDonald of the Superior court of Saskatchewan.

'VIGILANTES' ACT TO STOP DU PAGE TRAFFIC RACKET

Back Prosecutor's Drive on Irregularities.

BY PUTNEY HAIGHT.

A body of citizens representing municipalities of Du Page county, acting as a sort of vigilante committee with the object of stamping out motor traffic racketeering in that county, expressed determination yesterday at Wheaton to banish speed traps from York Center and other hamlets in the county. The consensus of the meeting at which twenty leading citizens discussed the situation was that the traffic law enforcement in that territory is becoming as much of a public nuisance as prohibition law enforcement, and must be properly restrained.

Charles W. Hadley, Wheaton attorney, and Mayor M. J. Pittsford of that city presided and urged the passage of resolutions definitely supporting the efforts of State's Attorney C. W. Reed in his campaign to suppress irregularities and combinations in the practice of raising of peaceable motorists.

Collect $7,500 in 3 Months.

More than $7,500 has been taken from motorists at York Center, Joseph H. Braun, general counsel of the Chicago Motor club, informed the group, within eight months, or about $1,000 a month for these two so-called motor vehicle law enforcers at York Center. This sum appears from the scanning of records up to date, and may prove to have been much more. Our totals do not take into consideration money paid to officers on the road, although we have track of a number of instances of payment made direct to motorcycle officers.

"The number of arrests—about 100 a month—made at York Center, which has six or seven houses grouped about the crossroads, is greater than the number of arrests made in municipalities of this area with populations of 15,000 or more. When we started the investigation we thought conditions were bad, but after getting the meager records that were discovered by the existing officers, we found that it was far worse than we anticipated.

"York Center is the worst speed trap in this whole region, including Cook county. It should and must be suppressed."

Not Winking at Law.

"We are not suggesting that there be any winking at actual traffic violations in Du Page county," Mr. Hadley said, "but the self-respect and general interests of the county demand that the sentiment of this community be represented in traffic control. We cannot afford to have men running wild as Constable Harvey Kinsley is doing at York Center."

"There is no safety to traffic involved in Kinsley's raids; it is merely a means of drumming up an income. That all his cases go to Justice Theodore Holz is a factor from which we may all draw our conclusions."

"All agreed that the speed trap at York Center and some others in the county were hurting the standing and reputation of Du Page county and should be suppressed at once."

Among the "vigilantes" who participated in the meeting were Attorney W. E. Cain, Daniel Garrity, utility district manager, Ira Cornelius of Wheaton; William E. Baethke, Glen Ellyn; R. N. Givler, Naperville; R. Hammerschmidt, Elmhurst; T. F. Hammerschmidt, Lombard; former Police Chief Westbrook, Glen Ellyn; President J. A. Miller, Lombard Lions club; Ralph F. Tellefsen, and Harry G. Weaver of Wheaton.

FINKELSTEIN AND PAUL FREED. Harry Finkelstein, alleged north side hoodlum, and a companion, Rose Freed, last Wednesday on charges of disorderly conduct when police found them in a new's stall at 5014 West Kinzie street, were dismissed yesterday for lack of evidence by Judge Francis Serrilli in State court.

WAR ON FAHERTY IN HIS $3,500,000 SEWER PROJECT

Citizens Oppose Letting Him Spend Cash.

Property owners of Rogers Park and Edgewater are organizing to fight the proposed $3,500,000 sewer system for the district. A protest, bearing 2,400 signatures, will be filed today with the board of local improvements, it was announced.

"One of the principal objections to the project," said George A. Jacob, 1315 Thorndale avenue, chairman of a citizens' committee, "is that the property owners distrust Michael J. Faherty, chairman of the board of local improvements. The property owners, who would have to pay for the sewer by special assessments, do not want Faherty to handle $3,500,000 of their money."

"Too Anxious," for the Job.

"Faherty," added S. L. Hansen, 1625 Chase avenue, another member of the committee, "seems overly anxious to get this $3,500,000 job. Not all of the property owners received notice of the public hearing before the board a month ago. And at the hearing Faherty refused to give us thirty days to investigate his plans. Rogers Park and Edgewater are being disciplined for failure to vote for Thompson. First, our paving repairs are out, and now the city hall is trying to put $3,500,000 from us."

"We suspect that the sewer is to be built longer than would be necessary. We know that Faherty wants to get more money to spend so as to have more jobs and more political patronage."

"The public has turned down his bond issue," said John P. Rosenberg, 1321 Hood avenue, "and his pay rolls are getting weak. He's desperate to keep up his political machine with jobs."

"This sort of situation is breaking down our system of government—this lack of confidence in public officials," Dr. W. F. Cathcart, 5414 Broadway, contributed to the discussion. "I wish I didn't own any property in Chicago."

Act After Mass Meeting.

The four property owners met yesterday to complete their protest petitions and to arrange for legal counsel. They were acting at the direction of a mass meeting held on Monday night in the Capital State bank, 5437 North Clark street, which was attended by 300 citizens and by Aldermen E. J. Frankhauser (49th) and J. A. Masson (48th).

The aldermen were made members of the protest committee and other members are: Miss Emma Laymen, 1253 Argyle street; J. J. Higgins, 5145 Glenwood avenue; W. J. Hopkins, 1525 Edgewater street; C. F. Swanson, 5625 Winthrop avenue; Walter McCowan, 6245 Glenwood avenue; I. J. Maudner, 1414 Glenwood avenue; Mrs. A. Nelson, 1425 Winnetka avenue; Mrs. A. M. O'Connell, 1355 Elmwood street; and C. J. Hultgren, 4526 Magnolia avenue.

THREE MILK WAGONS ROBBED. Three milk wagon drivers robbed in a quick succession early yesterday by a pair of Negro bandits traveling in a sedan. The robbers obtained a total of $32.50 in cash and a watch.

HUNT BANDITS IN GLENWOOD. Glenwood police were yesterday seeking two men who held up Andrew Marini, owner of the Parkway cafe, Glenwood, as he was driving on the Green Bay road, beat him with their fists and escaped with $150 in cash and a watch.

THEATER FINED $50 FOR 'SONNY BOY'S' STAGE APPEARANCE

The appearance of Davey Lee in his "Sonny Boy" role at the Balaban & Katz Chicago theater recently cost that corporation $50 and costs yesterday in Judge Alfred O. Erickson's court. Others fined were Jacob Epstein, manager of the boy's act; Nathan Platt, manager of the Uptown theater, and the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Lee, who were each fined $10 and costs. None of the defendants was in court when Judge Erickson assessed the fines. All entered pleas of guilty to charges of violating the child labor law.

DEPUTIES FIGHT PLEASANT DUEL; NOBODY IS HURT

Argentines Satisfy Honor with Guns.

BY HAROLD TATAM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] BUENOS AIRES, June 21.—Deputies Vinas and Bergalli of the Argentine chamber this afternoon fought a duel with pistols as the aftermath of the riot which broke up the meeting of the chamber yesterday, when tear gas, ink pots, and insults were hurled freely across the floor. After the meeting Deputy Vinas sent seconds to Bergalli to demand satisfaction. No one was injured in today's exchange of shots.

Pistols were chosen as weapons at a distance of twenty-seven paces. The duellists scornfully refused suggestions of a reconciliation.

Señor Vinas is a crack shot. He is reputed to be able to pierce the ace of hearts at the distance which the duel was fought, and therefore the onlookers were skeptical regarding the seriousness of the exchange, which apparently was fought under most pleasant circumstances. The speaker of the chamber was an interested spectator.

Another stormy debate in the chamber today is attributed largely to the strong feeling which prevails among government supporters against bitter criticism which has been leveled at government officials with regard to their own methods in general and the "slovenliness" of President Hipolito Yrigoyen in particular.

The general slump in Yrigoyen stock which undoubtedly has taken place throughout the country since the overwhelming victory of his party at the polls, is chiefly attributable to a widespread belief that the government is engrossed in petty party questions to such an extent that it is barely aware of the commercial crisis which impends as a result of the phenomenal slump in the wheat crop.

It is asserted that a large number of important documents awaiting presidential signature are snowed under by an ever increasing number of minor papers.

Hope to Aid Police. "The bureau will be primarily a place of investigation and not a school," Dean Wigmore said. "We hope to offer instruction to policemen so that they will not deter the search for the criminal by disturbing clues on the scene. I am pleased with the response given by officials at the meeting. I hail the movement as the greatest advance that has been made in behalf of law enforcement. It is refreshing to find officials eager to aid us."

CITY AND COUNTY AID ANTI-CRIME SCHOOL AT N. U.

Massee Agrees to Raise Fund of $300,000.

The proposed school of scientific crime detection to be established at Northwestern university was pledged official support by city and county law enforcement agencies at a meeting with Dean John H. Wigmore of the university's law school in the county building yesterday. Bert A. Massee, vice president of the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company, who is sponsor of the school, promised to secure a $300,000 endowment from business men by July 10.

At the session with Dean Wigmore were Deputy Commissioner John Stege, Coroner Herman N. Hundsen, Assistant State's Attorney Lee La Rochelle, who appeared for State's Attorney John A. Swanson, and Mr. Massee, who is foreman of the coroner's jury investigating the St. Valentine's day massacre of the seven Moran gangsters. All officials promised complete cooperation with the crime bureau.

State of Getting Fund. Mr. Massee reported that he had discussed the bureau with business men. He declared that he will have no difficulty in securing the $300,000 endowment and that he was sure the sum would be collected on the date which he set. Mr. Massee is the originator of the plan, having secured approval for it by the Association of Commerce and university trustees.

The bureau of crime detection is to be an independently endowed institution for the benefit of the public. It is to wage scientific warfare on crime. It will enlist all branches of science to aid police. It will offer instruction in ballistics, finger prints, chemistry of poisons, psychology of criminals, and associated studies.

Two members of the laboratory staff are to be Maj. Calvin Goddard, ballistic expert, and Dr. Ralph W. Webster, coroner's chemist. Efforts are being made to secure the services of a number of additional experts in branches to be associated with the bureau.

Hope to Aid Police. "The bureau will be primarily a place of investigation and not a school," Dean Wigmore said. "We hope to offer instruction to policemen so that they will not deter the search for the criminal by disturbing clues on the scene. I am pleased with the response given by officials at the meeting. ORDER JUSTICES TO GIVE MONTHLY REPORT ON CASES

Justices of the peace and police magistrates throughout Cook county were notified yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney Robert Design that they must make a monthly report on the disposition of all state cases tried before them. They are also instructed to make an accounting each month of the disposition of fines and costs collected in every case.

The prosecutor sent copies of report blanks to each of the 200 or more country town officials. The sheets also contain a place for a report of every case dismissed and of every instance where a major charge is reduced to a misdemeanor.

The new system is expected to first stop any possibility of fixing and secondly to make all justices account for all money collected by them.

HOT WEATHER IS STIMULATING TO NATION'S TRADE

Business Reviews Are Optimistic.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The advent of summer weather has afforded impetus to trade in the last week, although business previously had been unusually good for the season of years. The weather also has benefited crops, which, coupled with the sharp recovery in grain prices, has strengthened the general cheerfulness of the market. The weekly mercantile reviews again are in optimistic vein. "Less irregularity" appears in the business situation than is customary at this season and conditions have brightened greatly in the last week by the first extended period of real summer weather. Dun's review says, "There is little evidence of any unusual dullness in the leading markets. Retail distribution is on a wide scale and reports from leading centers tell of activity in summer, holiday and sporting goods lines."

Cotton Mill Production.

"Production in cotton mills is beginning to lessen. Cotton consumption in May was well up to the peak of earlier records. Silk production is lighter in some centers. Wool goods mills are well employed. Factory orders for automobile lines have been reduced. Little, if any, further recession is to be noted in iron and steel output."

Earnings.
